Salvation Army Operates In 97 Countries

Eighty-one years ago on July 2, 1865, Reverend William Booth founded The Salvation Army in London's East Side. "To meet a need at the point of need." The need was to reach the unchurched masses in the slum district, and preach to them the gospel of Christ. Later because he reasoned that the people he preached to also needed physical necessities, he opened food kitchens and homes for the homeless.

Today the official status of the organization is that it is functioning in 97 countries and colonies with 28,000 officers and 3,000,000 Salvationists. This "International Army" extended the friendly hand of helpfulness to men in the Allied Forces 225 million times on 26 fighting fronts during the recent war. William Booth, founder and first general of the Army, was succeeded in turn by generals William Bramwell Booth, Edward J. Hig-

WHY NOT A LITTLE CREDIT AT TIMES?

"Editorials by the thousands have been written in which the point was stressed that high-calibered men should be attracted to public office. And very likely if readers turned the pages in some of those papers in which such editorials appeared they would have found a 'feature' story, 'panning' some public official for alleged shortcomings. There is a type of editor who will drop real news any time in order to shoot reporters out after something embarrassing to this or that official. Those in public office all too often are just grist for the mill in the grinding out of certain types of newspapers. Seldom does anything appear in their columns favorable to conscientious men in public offices who are doing their best to perform their duties.

As an example: streets or sidewalks are in poor condition in a particular district. Residents protest and demand immediate repair. That is 'big' news to some papers. Out go camera-men and reporters. Statements from disgruntled citizens are obtained and 'played up.' The city engineer is made to appear as one who is failing to do that which he should do. The fact that the engineer's budget will permit of only a very limited amount of work and that he is trying to spread improvements over an entire city as best he can with the funds available is beside the point. That doesn't mean a thing to those editors who are self-appointed experts in public works and the financing of public improvements. The engineer hasn't functioned properly or all streets, sidewalks, stairways, etc., would be in perfect condition, is the impression conveyed to the reading public. There are no two sides to the issue. The residents are right and the public official is wrong, according to the published stories.

The mayor, city councilmen, members of the board of public works and other officials all come under the guns of criticism and often without being permitted to make timely explanation as to their alleged failure to function as they should.

Many newspapers have done virtually everything possible to make public office unattractive. It takes a fairly thick-skinned official to take some of the insinuations and charges made against him and continue to carry on to the best of his ability. We have heard many in office say, "Oh, what's the use? Whatever I do will be wrong once it gets into print."

That is decidedly not a healthy condition if generally prevalent in any city."

Camp -

Club of the West Newton Community Centre, Inc. enjoyed an evening outing at Waverly Oaks, Monday night, June 24, with Mrs. Walter Cooper, Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs. Hollie Turner, Mrs. Robert Haywood, Mrs. Rena Spikes, Mrs. Elizabeth Qualls, Mrs. Helen Lomax, Miss Bessie Hopkins, Mrs. Isabel Hutton, Mrs. Christine Moore and Mrs. William H. Cady in attendance. Picnic Suppers were enjoyed by all. The next outing for this group will be held at Two Centres' Camp, Cohasset, Monday, July 8, 1946. "There is no better fun than hiring a bus and going on an outing." These are the sentiments of the thirty-two members of the Craft Class and Weneceno Club of the West Newton Community Centre, Inc. who tripped to Salem Willows Tuesday night. Impromptu entertainment, all a part of the ride and the singing, and general hilarity were enjoyed by the following women as one of their closing activities for the busy winter season at the Centre. Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

The OPA

It is almost impossible to figure out the current situation, caused by the death of OPA. I have read the opinions of many expert columnists, listened to the arguments of numerous radio commentators, consulted with businessmen and plain, ordinary consumers. Frankly, I am still in a quandary. For a long time, I have been in favor of a continuance of the OPA, at least in some form which did not practically emasculate it. It seems that the bill which Congress eventually passed DID more or less emasculate it and therefore I have some sympathy with President Truman in vetoing it. On the other hand, I am rather frightened by the thought that from now on there will be no price control whatsoever, save for whatever may be imposed by individual states. In New York, for example, there appears to be a law which will prevent rents from moving up materially. Whether or not Governor Tobin will get away with his worth-while attempt to stop rent increases in this state is still to be settled, presumably by the courts.

Regardless of the above, there is this much to be said for the removal of controls. The black market, especially in foodstuffs, will disappear. Butted may come back in larger quantities and the time MAY be coming when the forlorn male of the species may be able to purchase some kind of a white shirt, either with or without a collar. And that, Brother, is something! In the last analysis, this country has always gone along on the basis of the good old law of supply and demand. It is quite possible that what will happen now is simply this. Most prices will go up, some of them far too much, for a limited period. Then, the time may come when the harassed consumer will have his innings. He will buy one shirt, perhaps, at a rather high price. Then he will lay low and decline to make any further purchases UNTIL prices have come down at least a reasonable amount. After all, the retailers will have nothing to gain by keeping their shelves piled high with unduly-high-priced goods. So, it is just possible that we will eventually arrive at the point where we are all paying more than in the good old days, and yet not enough more than we will have to admit is fair and proper, especially in view of the rise in wages and in the general cost of production. In the meantime, "let us try to be fair and as patient as humanly possible."

State Senatorial Contest

My attention has been called to an item in the papers with reference to the relative showing of the Republican and the Democratic nominees for the State Senate in this district. The item stated that Casper T. Dorfman of Newton received 4,669 votes for the Democratic nomination and that the Republican nominee, Richard H. Lee of Newton received approximately 3,100 votes. This news story omitted to say that Dorfman was unopposed and that Lee had to fight off former Rep. Louis Patrick of West Newton, who lost by less than 400 votes in the entire district which includes all of Newton and small parts of two other cities. Therefore, there were some 5,800 Republican votes cast against 4,669 Democratic votes. In other words, this is still, apparently, a relatively safe Republican district.

Lodge and Walsh

Last week, in this same space, I made the following statement: "If Senator Walsh really seems to have slipped during the last two or three years." In the Sunday Herald of June 30, my friend, Bill Mullins, refers to the state-wide defection from the Senior Senator and quotes a few figures to prove his point. He gives the vote in seven key cities and in one important town. The former are Cambridge, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Springfield and Worcester. In each of these places Senator Walsh not only ran behind the relatively unimportant Thomas J. Buckley, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for Auditor, a position which he won a few years ago by a curious political accident, but he also ran behind Governor Tobin, despite the fact that the latter had an opponent for the nomination.

Now, what does this mean? Let not the Republicans make the mistake of thinking that Col. Lodge is as good as elected to the U. S. Senate. That is not true. That primary vote of our Senior Senator simply means that some of the New Deal Democrats decided to support the late Mr. Roosevelt. If this analysis is correct, there is indeed good reason to believe that Majority Leader McCormack of South Boston will be rushed into the election battle this fall. If he fails to support Walsh wholeheartedly, our aging Senator is done for.

1948 G.O.P. Nominee

As of today, I am sorry to say that former Governor Stassen of Minnesota is definitely NOT a good bet for the Republican nomination for President two years hence. Neither is Governor Dewey of New York. Senator Taft and Bricker of Ohio are, unfortunately, in the writer's opinion, making too much progress in that direction. Watch Senator Vandenberg and Governor Warren of California. Either of these men, both growing in public esteem, may prove the winner. For dark-horse, Eric Johnson.

The program has worked so well that in 1945, in the seven fatalities caused by traffic accidents in the streets of Newton, not one driver of the vehicles involved was a native of Newton. And, in the vicinity of schools, a record of NO ACCIDENTS has been held since the school patrol system, sponsored by the Safety Council, has been in effect.

The Bicycle Registration Law, which has been adopted by Newton, has greatly reduced both the number of accidents and the stealing of these machines. 9,127 bikes have already been registered.

Dining With Jane and Bill

Junior: Here's a bright bouquet for you, Mom, our own garden carrots with fresh green tops.

Jane: They do look extra good that way. But bring them into the kitchen and I'll cut off the tops before they go into the vegetable bin.

Junior: If they're not for supper, can't I leave them here with the tops on to keep them fresher?

Bill: No, Junior. In the ground the nourishment goes from the green leaf to the root. But out of the ground it's just the reverse; the leaves draw moisture and food from the root.

Jane: Then I suppose carrots from the grocery store need tops trimmed off before storing, too.

Bill: If I remember a bit of my botany, beets, turnips, parsnips, and radishes are all root vegetables, too. The rule about cutting the tops from carrots would also apply to them.

*But remember the top trimmings of beets and turnips, when fresh and tender, are excellent sources of vitamins A and B. And very tasty!

Air Mail -

one thing for postal officials to visualize the handling of tremendous future loads of air mail for dispatch at 15 minute intervals and it is another thing to have that air mail load available and coming in constantly over a 7-day period. We know that, within a matter of months that air mail from Boston will more than triple the 80 million piece volume of 1945 from the East Boston airport. "Air Mails," he said, "require a different type of distribution and dispatch than train mail and with flights being increased in frequency to almost quarter-hour intervals in the very near future, we must develop even more exacting methods in the postoffice. The potential massive air mail loads may be reflected in even our truck schedules that convey the mails from our post-offices, in our collection system, in our distribution plan. It is by actually working the mail, rather than theory, can we make actual study and the time has come when we must face the future. That is why we urge the public to mail extra air mail letters this week. Everyone should mail at least one letter by air and business houses should send all distant mail by air—even for a test as to speed."

Postmaster Connelly outlined some of the activities going on around New England during this week. At Bridgeport, Conn., a Sikorsky helicopter will take off. This will be preceded by a concert by the Letter Carrier's Band. Special booths have been set up to sell air mail stamps and distribute souvenir covers. At Worcester, a helicopter will land directly in front of the postoffice and take mail to the airport for connection with the main line plane.

Mass. State Registrar Will Handle Devens College Applications

STATE HOUSE, Boston.—The 2700 Massachusetts veterans who have indicated they want to attend the Fort Devens extension of Massachusetts State College are being canvassed by the college registrar, it was announced yesterday by the newly appointed enlarged board of trustees reported to Governor Tobin that detailed plans for the college are ready.

In a report submitted to the Governor, the nine college presidents forming the board of trustees said that they had named an executive committee to handle all arrangements for the college extension which require immediate action.

The extension is expected to accommodate more than 2000 Massachusetts veterans who are unable to secure admission to other colleges and universities. Admission to the Fort Devens branch will be handled through the registrar at Massachusetts State College. The registrar has been directed to canvass the list of approximately 2700 veterans who have signified their desire to enter the institution.

FEPC Law Will Become Effective In Mass. August 21

By Arthur W. Woodman

STATE HOUSE, Boston.—Governor Tobin will set up the personnel of the $30,000 Fair Employment Practice Commission within the next few weeks.

The new state anti-bias law becomes effective August 21.

Representative Charles Gibbons (R) of Stoneham and Robert G. Connolly (D) of Boston, leaders in the fight to defeat FEPC legislation, were high men in the primary elections in their respective districts, contradicting arguments that opposition to the anti-bias legislation would be political suicide.

Governor Tobin in selecting three men to serve on the new Fair Employment Practice Commission is faced with the task of locating me to represent a cross section of the Massachusetts public, speak for minorities which have cried out against discrimination, and still and three men capable to administer the act without prejudice the act seeks to curb.

To find such qualities in one man is challenging.

Governor Tobin's appointees of necessity must be superior citizens to guard against witch hunts and persecution of industry to justify arguments of FEPC advocates that Massachusetts needed such a law.

The three commissioners will be appointed for one, two, and three year terms, and thereafter each member will hold office for three years.

The commission chairman is to be paid $5000 a year and the two associates $3000.

Broad rule making power granted the new FEPC commission will arm it with extraordinary influence over the economic and social life of Bay State residents.

Simple explanation of the coming agency would be that it is authorized to receive complaints from employees smarting from alleged discrimination, probe such protests and punish offenders.

Testimony against businessmen would be taken in any form the commission may desire that those found guilty of violating orders to refrain from continued discrimination are punishable by fines of not more than $500. There is also a penalty ranging from $10 to $100 for those plant operators subject to the law who do not post notices in their place of business that employees have every opportunity to protest against those hiring them.

The law will apply only to those employing six or more persons.

The commission is authorized to establish and maintain any

Blue Cross Enrolls 2538 in Newton

The Blue Cross Community Enrollment completed its Greater Boston campaign last Friday evening with a total enrollment of 39,778 persons, according to R. F. Becker, director of the Community Staff.

The cities and towns of suburban Boston, though containing less persons, enrolled a larger percentage of the population in the communities than were enrolled in Boston proper. This was due to the whole-hearted cooperation given the Blue Cross by newspapers, business organizations, public officials and private citizens in the suburban districts. Blue Cross expresses its thanks to all those who made this enrollment so successful.

Miss Helen Hussey who was in charge of the Newton enrollment center, stated that 2538 additional citizens in Newton secured Blue Cross protection during the campaign. Although Community enrollment is now closed to those who do not work at a company large enough to form a group, individuals are still eligible to apply for membership but must take a physical examination and pay an application fee. Those working at a company employing five or more must join with their employee group. All applications should be addressed to Blue Cross Public Relations Department, 38 Chauncy Street, Boston 11, Massachusetts.

district offices it may deem necessary—all of which calls for added personnel.

It has the power to appoint attorneys, clerks, agents and other employees and in addition to call on existing state departments for help.

So much for the administrative commission, but then comes the local, regional and statewide advisory agencies which can be established by direction of the gubernatorial appointees.

Fair Employment Practice Commission members have authority to set up advisory agencies and conciliation councils on whatever scale it chooses. Such agencies would be unpaid, but would be authorized to hire technical and clerical help in conducting its work.

And the work can require untold numbers of employees for the advisory agencies may investigate all problems of discrimination in all or specific fields of human relationships, make recommendations to the parent body, and develop plans for formal and informal education of anti-racial feelings.

In addition, publications based on investigation and research are powerful tools in the hands of a politically appointed agency.

Veducchio To Be Elks Delegate At N. Y. Convention

At a dinner meeting held in Elks Hall, Newton on last Thursday evening, six new members were inducted into the Newton Lodge under the direction of Exalted Ruler Nicholas Veducchio. They were State Representative John S. Whittemore, Dr. Ernest A. Marcoux, Frank Vaccarello, Thomas M. Colantuono, John Fenstermacher and Amasa V. Jonah. Admitted on a transfer from the Boston Lodge was James F. Farrell.

Esteemed Leading Knight Thomas McEnaney reported that plans are underway to start inter-lodge activities early in September. Members may sign up with him or with the following members of his committee: Carl A. Eschenbach, Frank O'Dea and Fred Burns.

Exalted Ruler Nicholas Veducchio will be the Newton delegate to the Elks Convention to be held at the Hotel Commodore and the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, July 7 to 10. Past Exalted Ruler R. John Henderson is the alternate. Nearly 40 members of the lodge are expected to attend the convention.

The dinner on Thursday night was served by the house committee, George Delaney, chairman, assisted by Fred Burns, Wallace G. Odell, William Wayland, Joseph H. Jassett, Daniel Tocci and Sidney Chant.

The next meeting of Newton Lodge will be on July 25.

Rotary Club

Herbert Kopf of 786 Chestnut street, Waban, coach of the Boston Yanks professional football team was the speaker at the meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Friday, June 28.

Mr. Kopf who was on the Washington-Jefferson Rose Bowl Team in 1921 and assistant to Lou Little, Columbia, for 13 years, was coach at Manhattan College before going into coaching professional teams.

His talk consisted of anecdotes and entertaining stories of the football world. He said that professional football would have a share of the big year sports are having. Already 3000 tickets have been sold by the Boston Yanks he stated, and they are looking forward to a very successful season.

Two suburbanites had spent the evening with "the boys" arriving home in the wee small hours. The next morning as they were waiting for the Inter-City bus, one asked: "Did you wife have much to say when you got home this morning?" "No, not much . . . but that didn't keep her from talking for two hours."

RECENT DEATHS

Robert C. Strong

Funeral services for Robert C. Strong, Dean of Freshmen and Director of Admissions at Dartmouth College, were held in the Rollins Chapel of Dartmouth with Rev. Leslie W. Hodder of St. Thomas Church officiating. Burial was in Pine Knoll Cemetery.

Dean Strong was stricken ill and died suddenly after addressing a meeting of Dartmouth Alumni officers on June 8. He was in his 44th year and was born in Amherst, Mass. September 12, 1902. He attended the Newton Schools and was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1924 where he was manager of the tennis team and a member of Green Key, Psi Upsilon and the Dragon Senior Society.

Following his graduation from Dartmouth he went with the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company but in 1925 was recalled to Dartmouth and became assistant to President Ernest M. Hopkins until Dr. Hopkins' retirement last fall. In the capacity of executive assistant to the president he fulfilled many of the functions entrusted to the Dean of the Faculty. He was clerk of the Advisory Committee to the President which recommends above the rank of instructor, and served as chairman of the special committee which for over a period of two years drew up plans for an all inclusive social center for Dartmouth students. In 1930 he was awarded an honorary Master of Arts degree.

During the war he was academic advisor to the Marine Corps detachment of the Navy V-12 Unit and served on nearly every war time committee of the College administration. In addition to his regular duties of operating the Selective Process or admission whereby a freshman class of approximately 700 men is chosen from 2,500 applicants each year, and of maintaining general oversight of the academic and social life of the freshman, he had during the past year been under the heavy burden of handling the unprecedented rush of applications from civilians and veterans, and also served on the special committee dealing with the return of upperclass veterans.

He also served on the New Hampshire Postwar Education committee and was a frequent advisor on college and second school relations. He was a former trustee of the American Alumni Council and a trustee of the Mary Hitchcock Hospital.

Dean Strong was married in 1930 to the former Dorothy Marsh Morgan of Milwaukee who survives him with their three children Elizabeth, 15, Jonathan, 12, and Thomas, 7. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. William E. Strong of Newtonville and two sisters, Mrs. H. H. Lounsbury of Newtonville and Mrs. Stuart M. Hill of Boulder, Colorado.

The sudden death of Dean Strong came as a severe shock to the students and officers of the administration at Dartmouth. President John Sloan Dickey on hearing of his death stated "Dartmouth College never lost a truer son or a more worthy worker in her cause." President Emeritus Ernest M. Hopkins in summing up the deep devotion to duty and integrity of Dean Strong said "My affection for Bob Strong personally, my respect for his integrity and deep appreciation as a Dartmouth man for the values he contributed to the College all make it impossible for me to speak of him dispassionately. Ever since his undergraduate days I have admired him for what he was and the qualities which were his. I loved him as a friend and through the years I was in office I found constant reassurance in association with him in his cool judgment combined with his human understanding of the complicated problems of his office. Dartmouth has suffered incalculable loss in his death."

Tribute was also paid him by Dean Lloyd K. Neidlinger who said "The strength of Dartmouth College is best measured in its men, and no single individual has contributed so much to this strength as Bob Strong who has so ably fulfilled the great responsibility of determining what manner of men we were to be."

His popularity among the student body and the affection they held for him was expressed by scores of undergraduates and by the veterans with whom he dealt. The life of Robert C. Strong was devoted to Dartmouth and to the perpetuation of the College's standards.

George F. Spalding
Funeral services for George F. Spalding of 176 Warren Street, Newton Centre, father of Judge John V. Spalding of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, were held at the Newton Centre Unitarian Church Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Burial was in Pine Grove Cemetery, Lynn.

Mr. Spalding died suddenly at his home on Wednesday, June 26. He was in his 88th year. Born in Lynn, he studied at Cambridge Latin School and at Phillips Exeter Academy before entering Harvard in 1878, graduating in 1882. Since then he had been engaged in several business enterprises among which was the sale and manufacturing of shoes, manufacturing agent in Boston for a mid-West woodenware company and since 1914 had specialized in cooperation as the representative of two western factories. An advocate of New England as an apple growing center, he became an active amateur pomologist and published a study, a copy of which is in the archives of the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester.

Prior to World War I he organized a local chapter of the National Security League and soon after joined the Committee on Public Safety. He was a member of the Harvard Musical Association and a co-founder of the Great Chebeague Golf Club.

Besides Judge Spalding he is survived by two other sons, Robert A. of Chicago, and Atherton Spalding of Newton, a daughter, Miss Rosamond Spalding and seven grandchildren.

Three Generations of Wellesley Family Open Accounts in New Bank

Two-Year-Old "Bobby" Amesbury Gets Passbook Number One

Youth took the floor at the official opening of the new Wellesley Office of the Newton Savings Bank when young "Bobby" Amesbury received savings account passbook No. 1 in which is recorded his first banking "transaction." Two-year-old "Bobby" is the son of Robert R. Amesbury of 87 Parker road, Wellesley, and grandson of Mr. Walter R. Amesbury, treasurer of Lasell Junior College, both of whom followed the youngster's lead by becoming depositors Nos. 2 and 3 respectively. Said Mr. Amesbury, senior, who is both a trustee and a member of the board of investment of the bank, "I'm delighted to have my grandson and my son recorded as the first two depositors in this new Wellesley office of the Newton Savings Bank. Today, when people realize more than ever the importance of thrift, it is a splendid thing for Wellesley to have, for the first time, a mutual savings bank offering complete thrift service. I'm sure there will be many families in which, like ours, three generations—children, parents, and grandparents—will want to take advantage of this convenient new Wellesley office."

Presenting the passbooks to the Amesburys was Mr. Benjamin F. Louis, treasurer of the Newton Savings Bank and manager of the Wellesley office. Mr. Louis was kept busy greeting visitors to the new office and introducing the rest of the staff of Wellesley office. Mr. Owen D. Murphy Jr., Mr. Raymond B. Thomas and Mrs. Doris L. Green.

Also present to welcome visitors when the bank opened its doors at 8 o'clock was Mr. Joseph Earl Perry, president of the Newton Savings Bank. Said Mr. Perry: "It has been our hope for some time to be able to make our complete thrift banking services available to the people of Wellesley. Our two communities—Newton and Wellesley—are already linked by many bonds. As population has drifted west (Continued on Page 8)

Newton's Housing Problem

Occasionally one hears real criticism of the City of Newton, both its citizenship and its government, because folks, including veterans, cannot locate a place to live within our borders. Few realize that ample vacant housing existed in Newton just a few years ago, and that when a considerable reduction in Boston's population occurred, Newton simultaneously rapidly increased in population far more than any other municipality in the Metropolitan section. Of course this large number of people came here because they wanted to, because they liked the kind of a city we had, and because the city was governed as it was. Why should Newton's citizens or government be criticized for this growth which so filled our vacant housing even before wartime restrictions prevented more construction?

Recently efforts have been made on a large scale to secure the changing of zoning restrictions as to size of lots, claims being made that the established lots of say 10,000 square feet are too large for the small but expensive homes being built today. Such changes would simply result in lessened cost or more profit to a developer by enabling him to build more houses per acre. We still have ample land, and zoning restrictions do not require large houses in any section.

Some of our neighboring towns require much larger lots, but no demand exists for the changing over of our type of city. Most citizens today realize that Newton's zoning ordinance is one of its prime assets.

Favorable, low-price rentals have gone the way of the 15-cent haircut and the nickel shine. Low-cost housing requires lower cost land than exists here. It is not good business to build $5000 houses on $10,000 land.

The present insistence on low-cost housing is nothing new in Newton. The situation has been the same for many years, as everyone knows. The problem has always been the same for our young people, and experience points out that this is the first time so many have been so insistent upon living in the old home town.

The roots of the Garden City are not entrenched in class distinction but in a system of values, expenditures, zoning restrictions and developments which have formed the character of the community and do not contribute to mass construction of a type to relieve the present demand. Let us not be critical of our success in having built what we have.

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Minnesota Election

As this column is being written there are only partial figures at hand on the virtually important primary election in Minnesota. However, I am advised by Boston papers that Senator Henrik Shipstead has conceded defeat at the hands of Harold Stassen's close friend, Governor Edward J. Thye. It is apparent that this contest was just as close as both sides had predicted.

If the final returns confirm Shipstead's defeat, it is pertinent to recount some of the implications of this bitter contest. First and foremost, the political stock of former Governor Stassen goes up sharply, as he continues his campaign for the G. O. P. Presidential nomination in 1948. His standing was none too good as a result of the defeat, not so long ago, of his favored candidate in Nebraska, Governor Griswold, who was badly beaten by an ardent isolationist, Senator Butler. Now, unless Thye's victory over Shipstead is too meagre, Stassen's stock bounces up again.

Secondly, the victory of Governor Thye would seem to indicate that isolationism in the important territory of the Mid-West is not growing as fast as many internationalists have been fearing. My readers may recall that Senator Shipstead, who has served four full terms in the U. S. Senate, openly bragged about his vote against the U. N. O. Consequently, had this notorious isolationist won over Stassen's hand-picked Governor in Minnesota, it would have turned back the hands of the clock and shocked all those who have put their entire faith in the U. N. O.

Further comment on this election will be held until the complete figures are available.

Senator Bilbo

It may be that Northerners do not take too seriously the political developments down South. However, the disgusting victory, by a substantial margin, of Senator Bilbo of Mississippi, is a national disgrace, at least from your columnist's point of view. Here we have an important public servant openly urging his white constituents to do anything and everything in their power to prevent the colored people from voting. As one radio commentator stated a short time ago, this would seem to be sufficient cause for the impeachment of Senator Bilbo. He has made mockery of our Constitution and has held us up to ridicule both at home and abroad. Think of what a juicy morsel this is for Brother Stalin in Moscow. How he must be chortling with glee to note the manner in which we believe so many of the fine things we talk about with such apparent sincerity and conviction. If only our United States Senate had the gumption to impeach this arrogant bully. Unfortunately, the Senate is prone to conduct itself more like a private club, composed of congenial friends, who will always rise to the defense of a member, regardless of the merits of charges brought against that member. Perhaps our own Senator Saltonstall will find time in the not too distant future to at least attempt to do something about his Bilbo scandal.

State Campaign

I have been doing a lot of thinking lately about the progress of the state campaign, which is, of course, still in its infancy. Suppose we do a little thinking out loud this week.

Secretary of State Cook is the only man I would dare venture any money on to win on Nov. 5. There are six other state wide contests. As of today, it is my judgment that Henry Cabot Lodge has a slender margin over aging Senator Walsh. However, I can conceive of developments in the final month of the campaign which might well give Lodge a fairly good lead over his veteran opponent.

The gubernatorial contest is a 50-50 proposition right now. Governor Tobin has the definite advantage of being in command of the state machinery, branching out all over the state. Bob Bradford, on the other hand, has the advantage of having a G. O. P. majority in our State Legislature. The chief trouble with the Bradford campaign to date has been that he appears to have listened to some very bad advice, given him by men who do not know as much as they think they do. Bradford badly needs a real master-mind to steer him clear of pit-falls and to guide him in the paths of sound political strategy. I could easily name the type of man I have in mind. Unfortunately, the best man for the job is currently guiding the destinies of another gentleman who also seeks the favor of the voters this fall. Would it not be a pity to have an unusually high-class public servant of the Bradford type go down to defeat simply because of poor political advice and strategy.

The Barnes-Kelly battle for Attorney General is another toss-up. Whichever party carries the Governorship will very likely carry the Attorney General along with him. That also holds true of the Lt. Governorship fight. That leaves the Curtis-Hurley affair for Treasurer and the Wood-Buckley fracas for Auditor. Based on nothing more than the magic of the names Hurley and Buckley, plus the fact that both men are now holding down the two offices, it seems to me that only a big margin of victory for the heads of the G. O. P. ticket will make it possible for Curtis and Wood to win.

Weekly Quiz
I was emerging from the dog-house two weeks ago when a very bright lady subscriber asked me to stay put a while longer. Now I am at liberty again. The question this week is:—

"What three Vice-Presidents of the United States became President in a normal manner?" In other words, for reasons other than the death of the incumbent while serving his term.

The electricians looked quite gay with the flags which were placed on the roofs of the cars on the Fourth.

At the quarterly meeting of the Newton Savings Bank, Miss Duncklee handed in her resignation as treasurer, an office she has filled so satisfactorily for the past 17 years. The resignation will probably take effect in October, at which time Miss Duncklee intends to retire and enjoy a well earned rest. When she first took the position the deposits of the bank were only $300,000, but under her care, and with the perfect confidence the public have had in her management, the bank has grown until now its deposits are $1,927,181.33, and its assets $2,051,381.79.

As an illustration of the crowded condition of the new electric cars, running between Boston and Newton, a citizen says he waited in Boston one day last week until six cars, bound for Newton, had passed, before he could get a seat.

The West End is said to have carried 13,500 passengers to and from Newton, in one day last week, which is the largest record yet made, although the average daily number does not fall far short of 10,000. The Newton Street Railway is proving a great feeder for the West End, and its cars are crowded on nearly every trip. A 10 cent fare from Waltham to Boston is evidently proving a great attraction to the residents of that city.

A movement is on foot to complete the Eliot Memorial on or before the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the first sermon preached by the apostle to the Indians in Newton.

The contract for the Masonic Temple was awarded to Mr. H. H. Hunt of West Newton. When this building is completed it will be one of the handsomest in the Garden City. Newtonville item.

Early last winter the city government appropriated $2,000 for the purpose of having a survey of the Newton schools, and Dr. James H. VanSickle, superintendent of schools of Springfield was engaged for that purpose. He suggests that it would be wise for Newton, in view of its division into numerous scattered villages to adopt the Junior High School system.

A total of 19,381 persons ten years of age and over in Newton, were engaged in gainful occupation in 1920, according to preliminary occupation statistics made public by the Census Bureau.

George Franklin Jewett et ux., who have bought the Henry E. Cobb estate on Bellevue street, opposite the Mt. Ida School for Girls, have plans ready for the improvements in the property, which will be in connection with the school.

Nurses Aides Needed At Hospital

The Newton-Wellesley Hospital has asked the Newton Red Cross Chapter for additional Nurse's Aides during July and August.

The need is most urgent and it is hoped the hospital will not be obliged to curtail in any respect because of an insufficient number of trained persons to care for the sick. Nurse's Aides who have resigned may be reinstated for temporary duty by calling L.A.S. 6004.

THE O.P.A. - YOU - US

Does this old saying apply to the OPA? — "You never miss the water until the well runs dry". Maybe, we don't know. We all admit that some inequalities exist as to prices but we also hope that these adjustments will take place slowly, else we will have run-away inflation.

Our policy has always been to ask a reasonable price for our merchandise — to render our best services — to select merchandise of high quality and utility when buying. We are old fashioned to the extent that we believe "profit" is a natural year-end result of good relations with our public, our suppliers, competitors and our employees. We are still of this opinion.

We can recall many instances of where OPA authorized price increases which we did not pass along in full or at all, as the increase was so small or that our margin could absorb them. We are not advancing prices now, just because OPA has passed out, and we shall resist increases offered to us and advance only as little and as infrequently as possible when our purchase costs have gone upwards.

It is said that we are in a "sellers' market, this we admit to an extent but we also have an idea that when the reverse takes place and it becomes a "buyers' market that folks will remember the sellers who gouged and shy from them.

Let us re-state our policy, and it has not changed in the 24 years that we have been doing business in New England. "We will continue to buy and sell quality merchandise made by reliable manufacturers and backed by our best service — that our prices will be reasonable — that always there will be value received — that we appreciate the confidence and good-will of our trade and shall strive to hold it — that we have a place in the community and we want to uphold our position and be a credit to our neighbors'.

A Message to Mr. and Mrs. Citizen

From
The Newton League of Women Voters

PRICE CONTROL

President Truman was asked by the League of Women Voters to veto the Price Control Act, which it labeled as "price control in name only."

"It is dangerous to allow the people of the country to believe that Congress has given them protection against inflation when in fact the bill with its amendments makes so many exceptions and administrative changes the job cannot be done. To have the pretense of price control under legislation so completely inadequate and so complicated, can lead to chaos," Miss Anna Lord Strauss, national League president, said in a letter to Mr. Truman. She asked him to include in his veto message a request for the passage of a concurrent resolution to continue present price control legislation. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. President:

The League of Women Voters ask you to veto the Price Control Extension Bill. We recommend a presidential veto, accompanied by a statement explaining the impossibility of maintaining effective price control under this extension, and a request for immediate passage of a concurrent resolution to continue the existing law.

The League of Women Voters has been a leader among supporters of the stabilization program since 1942. The League has from the first taken the position that there is no one way to curb inflation. It has supported price ceilings, rationing, increased tax rates, collection of income tax at the source, restrictions on wage increases, and government borrowing from individuals. The League has stressed the point that the fiscal program of the federal government ought to be the cornerstone of inflation control in the war and post-war periods.

Since the end of the war we have seen rationing almost completely abolished and taxes reduced. We have seen wages increasing and bond buying diminishing. The League urged Congress to hold firmly this last bulwark. Public opinion polls showed that this stand was in agreement also with the majority wishes of the people of this country.

The League of Women Voters believes that the Extension of the Price Control Act as amended is a price control bill in name only. We think that the amendments have so modified the law that it has become 'nearly useless,' as, in January, you predicted might happen when Congress was beset by groups who wanted price control eliminated. It is dangerous to allow the people of the country to believe that Congress has given them protection against inflation, when, in fact, the bill with its amendments makes so many exceptions and administrative changes, that the job cannot be done. To have the pretense of price control under legislation so completely inadequate and so complicated, can lead to chaos. Moreover, we believe that responsibility for the failure of inflation control will be fixed more clearly by a rejection of the Extension Bill as amended, than if it is passed.

The advantages to be gained by passing this 'nearly useless' bill, must be weighed against the disadvantages of having divided authority, new administrative procedures at this time, and specific special interest exemptions and privileges. The League fears the disrepute into which government and law would fall because of the difficulties of administering such a measure. The League believes that the welfare of the country will be better served by a veto of this bill, than by an acceptance of the bill as reported out of Conference."

Testimonial for W. A. Seaman

William A. Seaman of 45 Frederick street, Newtonville, was tendered a testimonial dinner in honor of his recent appointment as vice-president and director of the Liggett Drug Co., at the Park-

Nearly 200 managers of Liggett stores in New England attended. Edward S. Lavery of Newton presented Mr. Seaman a set of traveling bags. Thomas F. Doyle of Belmont was toastmaster and J. Cameron Wakefield of Wellesley was chairman. Harvey Bergher of Los Angeles, training director of the company, was among those present.

PROPOSED CHILDREN'S MEDICAL CENTER

This architectural sketch depicts the planned 12-story, modern building which will be constructed adjacent to the present Children's Hospital in Boston. It will be the first medical institution of its kind in the world.

Plan $10 Million Children's Medical Center in Boston

BOSTON, June 26—Architectural drawing of the super modern 12-story building which will house the $10,000,000 Medical Center for Children in this city was released today by J. W. Farley, president of the Children's Hospital.

The plan shows that the bed capacity for sick children will be increased over those available now at the Children's Hospital, which will be used as a nucleus for the Medical Center.

For years sick children have been brought to the Longwood avenue institution from every state in the union and from many parts of the world. However, as medical men have pointed out, the present facilities have long been overtaxed and long waiting lists confront parents seeking the specialized treatment which the Children's Hospital offers.

Added to the services, medical surgical and orthopedic now maintained at the Children's Hospital, there will be a cancer clinic, diagnostic laboratories, pediatric research facilities, a neurological institute and child health clinic in the new building. Plans for the ward floors call for infants, children and adolescents being segregated according to age groups and the treatment needed.

Public Works

cent Ordinance, moreover, the acceptance of partially built streets under the "General Laws" has been done away with, and all streets hereafter will be accepted only under the Betterment Law, being built to standard City specifications.

Although hampered by lack of pipe, the Water Department is making all efforts to meet the need for water service for newly constructed buildings, to increase the flow, and to better the quality of the water. It is planned to line with cement the main pipes in Parker street and in Dedham street. The usual program of gate valve survey, and of installing new shut-off gates where needed is being carried out.

In the Street Department, under Commissioner Harold F. Young, an improved system of accounts is in effect, as well as the new purchasing system common to all Departments of the City. A large program of Betterment street and sewer construction is under way, as much as possible of it being done by City labor. Owing to the large number of projects that have accumulated, and which the citizens have petitioned for, many of these are being let to contractors in order to get them done within a reasonable time. In addition to the statutory $43,000 from tax money, almost $200,000 in Bonded money is available for the construction of Betterment streets, as is a recent bond issue of $250,000 for sewers. Some street widenings are contemplated, and also new catch basins and the usual program of new concrete sidewalks and curbing as they are requested by citizens.

The recent issue of $400,000 of street bonds, with $300,000 more in prospect later in the summer, is to take care of the reconstruction of some of the main thoroughfares in the City where the most wear on the surface occurs. This is the beginning of a ten year program of reconstruction of the main highways of the City with heavy, permanent surfacing. With the need of constantly repairing these heavily traveled streets obviated, it is hoped that more time and money than heretofore can be spent in putting the purely residential streets into shape. The unusual number of "frost heaves" in the streets of Newton this year, common to a large part of New England, has taken up a large part of the time of street maintenance crews.

Under a three-year plan for purchasing new equipment, the Street Department has expended part of the $100,000 appropriated this year for new apparatus. A new "Snow-fighter" truck has been acquired, another will be delivered soon, and two snow-loaders have been received; if deliveries permit, the six mechanical snow plows on order will be available for sidewalk plowing next winter. Thirty of these are to be bought by the City eventually.

More snow-fighting equipment has been transferred to the South side of the City. A new and more efficient type of plow blade for all trucks is contemplated, and as soon as possible, more new trucks are to be bought, replacing City trucks that have been in service for from eight to sixteen years.

The City's two mechanical street sweepers are being repaired as it is not possible to get delivery on new ones, and one is in use at present. An appropriation of $25,000 was made recently by the Board of Aldermen for additional cleaning of streets.

A new traffic-line marking machine has been ordered, and will take the place of a great deal of hand labor. Two new and powerful bulldozers have been delivered recently, and it is hoped to have a City-owned welding machine to replace hired equipment.

Four new type automatic closed bodies have been ordered for rubbish trucks, and it is hoped that collections throughout the City will be greatly improved.

There are six thousand catch basins in the City; in order to clean them efficiently, the purchase of a new "Eductor" in addition to the one already operating is planned. This machine pumps the sludge out of the catch-basins.

The new engineering atlas of the City, which is almost finished, will mean large savings in the Engineering Department in making details of plans, etc.

$10,000 was appropriated in this year's budget for restoring the three City Cemeteries on Needham, Centre and River streets. Chain link fences will be put around them, tombstones will be repaired and replaced, and the grounds put into shape.

A large wall map, showing the accepted streets and the existing services in Newton, kept constantly up to date, has been placed in the room of the Public Works Committee at City Hall, as well as a map of the water system in the City and a schedule of all public construction in progress. More than one hundred street and sewer betterment projects have been petitioned for, many of which are completed or underway. It is hoped to finish a large number of these projects this year; as many as possible by City labor and the remainder by contractors.

All of the Public Works Departments are on the alert, ready for further projects and improvements, and are doing their best to take care of the physical requirements of the City.

NEWTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

FIRE PREVENTION SERVICE

Fires, violent explosions, death, suffering, injury for life and the destruction of property, these six associates, take their toll each year because people insist on using gasoline or similar hazardous fluids for cleaning clothes in the homes. The largest number of these casualties are women and helpless children.

A large percentage of the cleaning fluids that are for sale are substantially of a gasoline base and have flammable qualities. Artificial color or the addition of some other solvent may be added to disguise its real characteristic. A pint of gasoline vaporized has the destructive force of a pound of dynamite when it explodes. To bring either of these treacherous substances into the home is as unnecessary as it is foolish.

A variety of trade names are employed to designate these cleaners. Names ending in "ine" and "ene" suggesting gasoline content, are popular. Several grades of naphtha and benzene are sold for cleaning purposes, sometimes under their own names and sometimes in mixtures with other solvents. Chemically these solvents only slightly differ from gasoline, and have practically the same hazards when used as a cleaner.

The fact that people have used gasoline or other similar flammable fluid solvents to do cleaning and have not had any disastrous results, does not mean that the next time they do it will not be their last time. They have been very fortunate due to the erratic qualities of the gasoline or other similar volatile, which do not always explode every time they are exposed to an open flame or spark.

Friction between any two objects, themselves non-conductors of electricity, causes electrical "charges" to form on each object. When the "charges" are big enough, a spark passes from one object to the other.

When removing a spot with gasoline, a small piece of cloth is saturated with the liquid and rubbed on the spot. When the friction "charges" the two pieces of fabric, a spark and explosion or a fire is the result.

If you feel that you have to clean your clothes or remove spots from them, secure some carbontetrachloride or a carbontetrachloride base cleaning fluid. This can be obtained at most any drug store. It is both safe and efficient. Carbontetrachloride is used as a base for certain types of fire extinguishers.

Today there are a number of excellent cleaning establishments that do this work. They are equipped to do this work quickly and safely. Their work is usually more satisfactory and economical than doing it in the home and it eliminates the attending hazards that can result.

Your family and a safe home in Newton is worth more than an unnecessary gamble with—fire, explosions, death, suffering, injury for life and the destruction of property.

Admission General Requirements
Graduation from high school.
Submission of transcript record.

Special Requirements
For Liberal Arts and Pre-Engineering curricula, at least 16 units of acceptable work are necessary.

Since colleges vary in their demands, students who wish to secure advanced credits toward a degree in some other institution must first have satisfied the entrance requirements of the college to which they plan to transfer.

The entrance requirements for other curricula are not so formal and exacting. Admission will be on an individual basis. A high school diploma is necessary, and an aptitude test may be required.

Veterans who do not fulfill admission requirements in the normal manner may be admitted as special students if they present satisfactory evidence of maturity, show seriousness of purpose, and have qualifications needed to pursue the academic course they wish to study. An aptitude test may be required.

All applications for admission will be subject to approval of the Committee on Admissions. This committee reserves the right to refuse admission to those not properly qualified.

Application for Admission
Applications will be accepted after June 24, and will be considered in the order in which they are received by the Admission Office. Candidates are urged to file their applications as soon as possible after June 24.

Non-Residents
Students residing outside Newton will be admitted if there is room for them in "Division classes." No housing accommodations are provided by the Division.

Admissions Office
The Division is located at Walnut Street and Elm Road in Newtonville. The Admission Office is located on the first floor of Building 2. Information may be secured from the Director of Admissions beginning June 24, from 9 to 12. Telephone, L.A.S. 6287.

Registration
Registration for students who have been accepted will take place Monday and Tuesday, September 23 and 24, in the Institute Library.
A charge of $5 will be made for late registration after October 2.

* Throughout this prospectus the word Division means the Division of instruction at the junior college level.

Credits and Transfers to Senior Colleges
The Division operates according to standards set by the Massachusetts Board of Collegiate Authority. It should be clearly understood, however, that the Newton Public Schools cannot guarantee acceptance of Newton Division credits by other institutions of advanced learning. Each senior college will decide for itself on the acceptability of the credits earned. Every effort will be made to secure transfer privilege.

Classification of Students
Full-time or Part-time Programs
The minimum full-time program for a Division student is 16 credit hours. The maximum is 20 credit hours.
Students who do not find it possible or desirable to pursue a full-time program of studies leading to advanced education or to specialized business or industrial fields may, with the approval of the Division Guidance Office, arrange a part-time program of studies. This plan makes it possible for young men and women who are employed or who have highly specialized needs and interests to take advantage of some Division facilities.

College-level and Post-graduate Courses

Full-time Division students will elect most of their subjects on the college level.

In some cases, however, Division students may desire to elect senior high school courses not offered at the college level. Such courses may be elected on a post-graduate basis.

To retain their Division classification, students must take at least half of their work on the college level. Young men and women who are high school graduates are classified as post-graduate high school pupils if they elect more than half their work in senior high school courses.

Students wishing recommendations tion to senior colleges must maintain averages of 2.75 or higher.

Credit Hours

Credits in courses are granted on the successful completion of course requirements. The normal program of sixteen credit hours for the year in the Division is the equivalent of a 32 semester-hour year taken in four-year colleges. One credit hour in the Division will require two hours of preparation by the average student, either in individual study and/or in the laboratory.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition
For Newton residents the tuition for a full-time program is $12 per credit hour per year, payable in two equal installments, not later than September 27 and not later than February 1. Students taking part-time programs must pay full tuition not later than Sept. 27. The normal program with a minimum of 16 credits hours costs $192.

For non-residents the tuition is $15 per credit hour per year.

Return of Tuition of Fees

No refund of tuition is made for absence, withdrawal, or dismissal except in cases of prolonged illness and upon the advice of a physician.

Counseling and Placement Service

Services of the Guidance and Placement Offices are available to Division students. Interviews and tests are available to enable a student to evaluate his interests and abilities.

Students who want part-time work should consult the Placement Office for help.

A separate library for the Division is provided in Room 2200. Special facilities in the Newton Free Library, Newtonville, are also available to students of the Division.

Social Room
A social room reserved for Division students is located in Building 2.

Lunchroom
Cafeteria service in Building 3 is available to students.

Classes
Although the general policy is to provide instruction in small groups, no class will be formed for fewer than twelve students.

Absence from Classes
Absences from class must be excused by the Division office or by the registered nurse. Work lost because of excused absence must be completed and accepted by the instructor of the course. Work lost because of unexcused absences is rated F with no opportunity for make-up.

Conduct
Students are expected to display exemplary conduct on the campus and in the buildings. In case of undesirable conduct a student, upon recommendation of the Faculty Committee, may be asked to withdraw from the Division.

Fish and Game Notes

Conservation Officer Al Griffin tells us that each year many good-intending samaritans, upon seeing wildlife in its infancy, get the urge to pick them up and bring them home. This practice, as a rule, insures the death of birds and animals. If they were unmolested, they would have a better than even chance of surviving. Al asks that we give wildlife a chance to rear their own young.

After a slow week, the trout are beginning to hit again, according to most conservation officers. . . . Although brooks and rivers are still high, pond fishing has been very good. The reputation of trout as king of the game fishes has been seriously threatened by Mr. Horned Pout. More and more anglers are becoming interested in this fighting fish.

The Boston Summer Theatre at air-conditioned New England Mutual Hall has announced that Francis Lederer and Bramwell Fletcher will be co-stars in its production of "Angel Street" the Patrick Hamilton thriller which opens the third week at the new playhouse under the sponsoring of John Huntington and Lee Falk on the Monday evening of July 8. Ruth Homond will be Nancy the plotting servant girl and Marian Grant will have the role of the housekeeper. The production will be directed by Gant Gathier, designed by Eliot Duvey. Major Brown Atom Bomb Test Intelligence Officer

One of the most important although unpublished phases of the Atom Bomb tests in the Marshall Islands is the intelligence and security job being done quietly but effectively by the Joint Task Force for the preservation of our national security.

At Kwajalein, from which atoll the A Bomb was flown for the July 1st drop the Task Force Intelligence Officer is Major Emmons B. Brown, 34, of Newtonville, Massachusetts. His job is to insure the highest secrecy of the many involved operations necessary in preparing the bomb and getting it to its take off point—no simple assignment considering all the publicity and interest attending Operations Crossroads, in which "Gilda," the 4th A Bomb, was perhaps the star performer of the first test.

Major Brown, married to the former Ellen Scholl, and the father of two small sons, a graduate of Dartmouth College and of Northeastern Law, entered the army in August, 1941. He has probably more intelligence experience with the A Bomb than anyone still in service, having served with the fantastic Manhattan Project since 1943, all over the United States, Canada, and in the Pacific theatre of operations. He is especially well qualified to handle his present mission, having set up security measures for secret laboratories and plants handling and researching everything from raw uranium ore to the finished bomb itself.

$3,000.00 STRAIGHT LIFE INSURANCE DEATH BENEFIT (CASH VALUE $360.30)
$736.59 CASH SAVINGS! (PLUS INTEREST)

Under our new "packaged savings" plan, one simple monthly payment continued for ten years, will provide both substantial cash savings and the life insurance protection that every family needs.

It's simplicity itself! All you have to do is decide how much you can afford to deposit monthly, bring it in to the bank (or mail, if more convenient) and we will divide it between cash savings and insurance in whatever proportions best suit your particular needs.

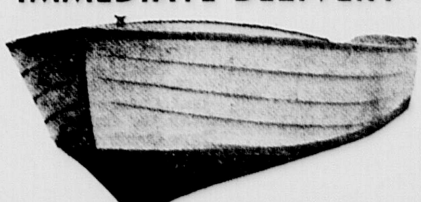

This example shows what can be accomplished with a regular deposit of only $10.00 a month for ten years (at age 30). Other "packaged savings" plans may be worked out for a larger—or smaller—monthly deposit, for a longer or shorter period than ten years, for paid-up life insurance or an endowment policy, instead of straight life insurance. The plan is completely flexible—may be tailored to fit your needs!

It's easy to understand, too—but because it is different, there may be questions you'll want to ask. "Must I continue the plan for the full ten years?" (No, you may stop at any time) "Do I get interest on my savings deposits?" (Yes, at our current rates). "May I make weekly instead of monthly deposits?" (Yes, plans may be arranged for as little as $1 a week), etc., etc.

To answer these and other questions, a new booklet has been prepared. Stop in or write for it now, so you can get started on this streamlined "packaged savings" program today.

Open House at Camp Wonderland Next Wednesday

John E. Wilson, president of the Salvation Army Greater Boston Advisory Board, announces Annual Open House Day at Camp Wonderland. The Salvation Army fresh air camp at Lake Massapoag, Sharon, Mass., on Wednesday, July 17, to which the general public is cordially invited to attend.

A feature of the day will be the dedication of the new Recreation Building at 4:30 p.m.

Made possible through the generosity of a friend's legacy, the new building has a spacious auditorium with a stage and a large fireplace. Seating capacity in the auditorium is 650 persons. In the basement of this modern building are craft rooms, separate showers and wash rooms for girls and boys as well as offices.

Open House Day—An annual affair at the camp will mark the 21st season that Camp Wonderland has provided a summer vacation for 2000 boys, girls, mothers and infants. It occurs at a time when the plant, under the direction of Mrs. Colonel Richard F. Stretton, camp superintendent, is in full swing with campers enjoying the natural and man-made facilities of Camp Wonderland. It affords an opportunity for members of the Advisory Board and friends to see the work that the Salvation Army performs at the camp. In addition, to the general public, members of the press and public officials have been invited to attend. Last year more than 800 guests attended Open House Day.

Farewell Banquet for J. Vincent Morrison

J. VINCENT MORRISON

A farewell testimonial banquet was tendered Mr. J. Vincent Morrison of 109 Vernon Street, Newton, in the Silver Room of the Hotel Kenmore on Wednesday evening, June 26, by his friends and employees at Radiation Laboratories, M.I.T. in Cambridge.

He was presented with a Philco Radio-Phonograph Console as a token of their esteem.

Mr. Morrison, who has been Packaging Engineer and Supervisor of shipping for the Laboratory for the past four years, terminates July 12.

He has accepted a position with a large Western lumber company and is moving his family to Spokane, Washington.

Family Service, Rather Than Charity, Aim of Bureau

Announcement has just been made of a change in the title of the Family Welfare Association of America of which the Family Service Bureau is one of the 229 Agency Members in the United States and Canada. The organization, with national headquarters in New York City, will henceforth be known as the Family Service Association of America.

Ralph A. Uihlein of Milwaukee, president, in making the announcement noted that many of the country's leading private social agencies have already voted to drop the words "welfare" and "charity" from their organizational names.

"The modern family service agency no longer serves primarily persons in need of financial assistance," he pointed out. "Family service, rather than welfare and charity, more aptly describes the nation wide program of assistance to individuals in their personal and family problems."

Mr. Uihlein added that "because of long experience in dealing with intimate personal and family problems, thousands of people from every walk in life now come to these agencies for consultation and that many agencies are developing a system of fees for those who prefer to pay something for counseling services."

ward, many former Newton residents have settled in or near Wellesley. More recently, we have witnessed another kind of interchange between the two communities, when the former Newton Hospital has been renamed "The Newton-Wellesley Hospital" in token of its support by and service to the residents of both places. It is our hope that the opening of our new Wellesley office will serve further to cement the friendly relationship already existing between our two communities.

"In an official memorandum to the State Bank Commissioner last Fall, it was pointed out that Wellesley at that time was the largest community in the state which had no mutual savings bank facilities. With the opening of the Wellesley office of the Newton Savings Bank, this situation has been remedied. We have always had many contacts with Wellesley citizens—over 6000 last year—and we are happy indeed to be able to supply this long-felt want by bringing the services of our bank to them from this new office in their own home town."

The new office is a distinct addition to Wellesley square having been carefully designed to fit in with prevailing architecture. The exterior is ivory colonial with black slate, the interior finished in soft knotty pine. The architect for the work was Albert M. Kreider of Newtonville and the contracting was done by H. H. Hawkins and Sons Co., Inc. of Newton.

The Wellesley office of the Newton Savings Bank will be open for business from 8 to 2 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. On Wednesday the hours are from 8 to 12. It will be closed, as are most Massachusetts banks, on Saturdays until October 1st, after which it will be open on Saturdays from 8 to 12. The bank is ready to supply complete mutual savings bank services, including regular and special savings accounts, savings bank life insurance, home mortgages and repair loans, register checks and personal loans, as well as Travelers checks and foreign remittances.

ner beat Watertown in the morning games, both of which saw heavy hitting by the winners, Hal Worden of Newton banging out four hits including a home run while Joe Byrnes of Newton Center had a triple in his three hits. Pat Hanson pitched a fine game for the Newton boys while John Walsh for Newton Center kept Waltham under control. In the afternoon contest the championship and a very appropriate prize went to Newton Center after a gallant fight by Newton Corner, 8 to 1. For four innings the Corner team led 1 to 0 but youth finally prevailed and Capt. John Kane's team won the title, ably assisted by the fine pitching of John Walsh who was twice victorious. The fleet footed fielding of Capt. Les McGilivray of Newton Corner team was continually applauded by the crowd. Les stole hit after hit away from his opponents while Harold Worden also of Newton was a regular Duify Lewis in left field. It is whispered that Newton will demand a return match from the champions. In horse shoes John Cunningham and Dick Swift won the doubles championship, taking two out of three games in the finals from Peter MacInnes and Joe O'Gorman. Chairman John Kane was toastmaster at the after dinner speaking during which vocal selections were rendered by John Burns of Dorchester. Plans were made for the reopening of the Postoffice bowling league in September with a 10 team league, the organization having disbanded during the war period. John J. Quinn of Newton Center won the door prize—a Palm Beach suit. It appeared to be a Newton Center day as far as prizes went.

Four Newton young men Frederick L. Lindberg of 26 Dexter Road, Newtonville; Gerald B. Nolan of 4 Marlboro Street, Newton; James M. Patterson of 1470 Beacon Street, Waban and John W. MacNeil, 252 Franklin Street, Newton, are at the new Veterans summer session at Browne & Nichols School in Cambridge, until August 16. Students may choose two of the four courses.

Mr. MacNeil, a graduate of the Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga., is preparing to enter Dartmouth. Mr. Nolan, a graduate of Newton High School, will enter Harvard and Mr. Patterson plans to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Browne & Nichols veterans' summer session was organized in response to requests from college counselors of veterans to private secondary schools for summer instruction for veterans entitled to educational opportunities under the GI Bill of Rights. The 26 students enrolled are preparing to enter Harvard, Tufts, Yale, Dartmouth, M. I. T., University of Toronto, Boston University and other institutions.

History of Bank Sketched by Clerk Harry J. Carlson, Joseph E. Perry Speaker at Dinner

The Newton Centre Savings Bank, incorporated on June 22, 1896, is celebrating its Golden Anniversary this year.

Highlighting the observance was an anniversary dinner held at the Brae Burn Country Club on June 25 at which 50 persons were present including incorporators, trustees, and employees of the bank as well as representatives of other Newton banks, and the State Banking Commissioner's office.

A history of the bank against a backdrop of the late 90's was given by Harry J. Carlson, clerk of the bank since 1911. Mr. Carlson's remarks follow:

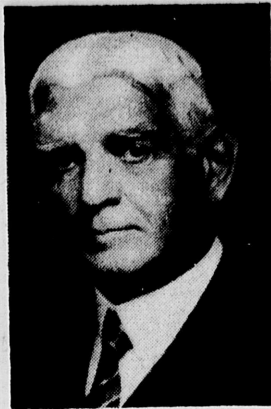

Fifty years ago, when this bank was started, we lived in a different world. The country only had some 70 million people where now we approach 150 million. Our national debt was only a little over one billion of dollars while now it is creeping, yes jumping, up to 300 billions.

We were then about 10 days' distance from Europe; now about 10 hours—and as to our outlook on financial matters, I might mention that 50 years ago I completed my first home—a big living room, library, dining room, etc., and it cost me complete $3,500. A well known builder went over it recently and said it would cost about $18,000 to build it now. Think of it, over five times as much.

Locally, we have changed too. Newton Centre, as I remember it, and I have lived here almost 60 years, was then a quiet little country village called Saints' Rest on account of the many retired ministers and missionaries that had decided to spend their last days in the quiet shades of its elms.

No autos dashed up to the railroad station 50 years ago to take away the arriving passengers although the Stanleys were even then startling the natives as they shot by in their noisy but effective steam auto.

No, instead of autos, there were rubber-tired carriages and sleek horses prancing before the little wooden station, on the surface, near Station street, as it was then called before Newton Centre realized that it had a genius living in it named Langley—from which Langley Road.

The Newton Graphic of January 10, 1896 records a complaint to the B & A R.R. that the trains were poorly lighted with oil lamps. (Do you remember too smelly, smoky things?) And that the best trains had only three open gas burners.

Several years before 1896, the site of Bray Block was a deep, fenced-in watery hole, and back of it the ground slowly sloped up to the old wooden building that was Farrar's Blacksmith Shop.

When Bray Block was completed, the Newton Centre Trust Company (later the Newton Trust Co.) moved into this building in quarters where Luther Paul is now. The N. C. Trust Co., then only two years old, when we started had only about $177,000 of deposits (in 1895) while now it has resources of over 70 million.

When our savings bank started in 1896 (two years after the founding of the Newton Centre Trust Co.) Seward W. Jones was our first President, and he has remained active on our board until this day.

With Mr. Jones were associated the first President of the Trust Company, Dwight Chester, who I remember as usually sitting in the meetings with his eyes closed as if in sleep, but—let anything questionable come up and the eyes would open and a terse, to-the-point remark would set us sailing correctly on our course again. Dwight Chester was the only Trustee, at the time of incorporation, who had had any experience in Savings Banking as he had been a Trustee of the West Newton Savings Bank which celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1937.

With these two men, Seward Jones and Dwight Chester, was a third man who really made both the Trust Company and the Savings Bank financial possibilities. This was Mellen Bray, who for

According to an order issued by the Newton Fire Department the services of the department will no longer be available to persons who by either losing or forgetting their keys have become locked out of their homes.

In the past the Fire Department has received many calls for such assistance and by means of their ladders have been able to gain entrance to the homes of persons who have sought such aid.

Officials of the Fire Department feel that while members of the department might be so engaged a sudden need for their services to protect life and property might arise.

Miss Brooks Resigns From Staff of Pomroy House

Miss Betty Brooks, director of the Nursery School of the Rebecca Pomroy House, has resigned to be married to Mr. William MacKinnon. Miss Brooks has had charge of the Nursery School of this Newton Red Feather Agency since its organization in 1939. She has been an influence in the lives of many of the little tots in the neighborhood over these years and it is with regret that they see her leave.

A number of the mothers of the children of the school, both past and present, some of the leaders of the Agency and Mrs. Hugh Hince, president of the board of directors, gave Miss Brooks a farewell party in the form of a shower during the past week. Gay decorations prepared by Mrs. Ruth Tedesco, assistant in the Nursery School and Mrs. Betty Mullin, one of the mothers brightened the rooms. Refreshments were served and the visitors entered into a happy evening of games.

"It is useless to talk of labor's purchasing power encouraging business if business is asked to produce goods at a loss," says the New York Times editorially. "We cannot have full employment if people are discouraged from becoming employers."

When business can no longer employ and produce, government will step in—and the state bureaucrat will be the economic dictator. Then we'll have exactly the essentials of fascism, here at home, that we fought the most destructive war in history to destroy.

Kiwanis Club

John Curley, graduate manager of Boston College, addressed members of the Newton Kiwanis Club at their meeting held at the Newton YMCA on Wednesday.

Mr. Curley said that in order to take care of 3,000 extra students, many of whom are vets, three extra dormitories are being built for the college. The veterans he said are wonderful students, and one's marks have set an all time high at B. C. 80 per cent of the student body will graduate.

The first football team will be composed mostly of returned veterans, one of whom was shot down in air combat. Before the first game of the season B. C. spends about $110,000 with the expectancy of finishing up with a take of $170,000. The health exams of the players exacting and many discover ailments that they never suspected. There are 100 G. I. candidates this year.

Games will be played at Fenway Field this year instead of Fenway Park, the anticipated World Series having something to do with the change. There are 10,000 more seats at Fenway Field.

Boston College is trying to get some of the Big Ten teams as opponents. Games are usually scheduled 2 or 3 years in advance.

The following is the schedule for 1946:

Sept. 27 Wake Forest at Boston—Night game.

Oct. 5, Michigan State at Michigan.

Oct. 12, Kings Point at Boston.

Oct. 25, Villanova at Boston—Night game.

Nov. 2, New York University at N. Y.

Nov. 9, Georgetown at Boston.

Nov. 16, Tennessee at Boston.

Nov. 23, Alabama at Boston.

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Tool Owners Union

For the benefit of those who do not read the Boston Herald regularly or who may have missed last Sunday's edition, I would like to recommend watching closely the developments concerning the Tool Owners Union and The National Home and Property Owners Foundation.

These two new organizations were described in some detail by Bill Cunningham in his weekly column. They represent the first real sign that the much-abused white-collar worker is at long last about to get a break. Not that there will be any startling news in the immediate future, but that there is a ground swell of considerable proportions setting in which should result in some definite benefit to those who have been right in the middle for a long, long time.

Now, both organizations are non-political, non-profit and non-stock selling organizations, which propose to "slag hard for free enterprise, for the man with a white collar, or even no collar who, up to now, has had no way to lift anything but the individual voice, despite the fact that his property was in jeopardy."

Consider these figures. There are supposed to be some 5,000,000 members of the CIO, but there are, without question, 50,000,000 people in this country with savings banks accounts and a huge group of 40,000,000 with life insurance policies. Also, there are some 27,000,000 property owners. All these people pay heavy taxes and foot the bills for all the hundreds and hundreds of wasteful and overlapping bureaus in Washington and elsewhere.

Mr. Roosevelt authorized the expenditure of some two billion dollars in preparation for the recent Bikini atom bomb test and all the work leading up to it. As Bill Cunningham phrased it, the three huge groups of citizens mentioned above "haven't had any more voice than a turtle. They want to talk."

The National Home and Property Owners Foundation is already organized in 47 of our 48 states. Watch it. At the moment, it does not plan to interrogate candidates for Congress, but this group of public servants will do well to include in some heavy thinking immediately. The Tool Owners Union, however, plans to catch a candidate when he announces for office and hand him a questionnaire as to what he believes in. Answers will be given publicly; so will the candidate's failure to answer questionnaires. Then, legislation will be watched very closely. Bills which are harmful will not be allowed to sneak by because the general public is uninformed.

Congressmen who cost our votes will find themselves in real trouble and will not be able to hand out plausible alibis at their leisure. All in all, your columnist feels somewhat cheered about the situation.

Special Session

There seems to be relatively little interest in the possibility that the Republican leaders of the State Legislature may call a special session in the near future for the purpose of enacting some rent-control legislation. The Governor said it was not necessary at this time, in view of the fact that he had already frozen rents under his war emergency powers. Furthermore, it is quite possible that Congress will take some sort of action along these lines before it adjourns.

Here is an interesting possibility. Suppose that there is a special session and that a rent-control bill is passed. The Governor could veto it and the G.O.P. does not have sufficient votes, apparently, to override a veto. That appears to have been proved during the recent session of the Legislature. The Republicans can usually pass a bill, on the basis of a majority vote, but it is quite another matter for them to secure the necessary two-thirds vote to override a veto. This may be one reason why the G.O.P. leaders are marking time, especially in view of the added fact that Senator Nicholson of Wareham, the floor-leader in the Senate, is inclined to mark time until he sees what, if anything, Congress may do.

There is another factor, too. Some people, who are not greatly concerned about the welfare of either major party, are wondering if all this hue and cry about a special session might be a strategic political move to further the G.O.P. campaign during the next three months. If that could be proved, there would be no special session, because both parties are worried about where our heavy independent vote will go this fall. My personal guess is that the matter will be allowed to die a natural death.

In Washington

Space does not permit a discussion of all the vital happenings in Washington right now. It will pay, however, to watch the developments in the May profiteering case, the OPA and the atom bomb. For Republicans only, I suggest a study of the vote on the British loan. Here we had 122 Republicans voting AGAINST the loan and only 61 voting for it. Inasmuch as only 155 votes were cast against the loan, you can figure out quickly what the average Democratic Congressman did. The vote FOR the loan totaled 219. Think that over. I wonder what effect this vote will have in the fall elections.

The first wedding in the new Eliot Church, Newton was a very brilliant affair, and on Tuesday evening every seat in the Church was filled with guests to witness the marriage of Miss Mary A. Ellison, daughter of ex-Mayor William P. Ellison, to Mr. Frank A. Day, of the Boston banking house of R. L. Day & Co.

The Newton Street Railway grows more popular daily, as a pleasant means of securing an outing, and the round trip gives one an opportunity to see some very attractive scenery, especially the Waltham part of it, with its views of the Charles River, and the wooded fields and hills beyond. During the warm evenings the cars are always well filled.

Miss Martin, formerly head assistant at the Newton Centre post office, is substituting for Miss Batchelder during her absence.

An exhibition of cooking with vapor stoves will be given from 2 to 8 p.m. today in A. J. Fiske's warerooms, West Newton.

The Allen swimming pond has been largely patronized during the warm spell, averaging about 100 visitors daily.

The new depot was occupied for the first time Sunday and everyone seems pleased with its appearance inside as well as out with the exception of the expensive (?) cinder walks, Newton Centre item.

Newton Graphic, July 13, 1921
While the greatly increased automobile traffic on the south side of Commonwealth Avenue seems to justify the movement to open the north side of the avenue and make both sides, one way streets, with traffic going in opposite directions, it should be borne in mind that a considerable portion of the north roadbed is not suited for heavy traffic and will rapidly go to pieces. This will necessitate a heavy expense probably next year for a suitable roadbed, and in view of the rapid increase in city expenses, it might well be left for a few years longer.

Immense quantities of building materials were employed in the construction of the massive sets that distinguish "Deception," the wonderful Paramount picture which will be shown at the Newton Olympian Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Henry Porten and Emil Jannings, famous European film artists, have the leading roles.

Newton Newcomer's Club

The Newton Newcomer's Club met Friday, July 12 at the Newton Highlands Workshop for their usual program of dessert and bridge.

Mrs. Carl A. Albrecht presided over a short business meeting. Three new residents were entertained by the club.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing bridge. Prize winners were Mrs. William E. Carver, first prize; Mrs. William E. Larkin, second prize; Mrs. Howard Kating, third prize; Mrs. Bettie Patton, fourth prize. During the month of June the following residents became members of the club: Mrs. Louis Cadien, Mrs. A. R. Whitman, Mrs. John Urquhart, Mrs. Edgar M. Brister, and Mrs. Fayette Clarke.

The next meeting will be on Friday, July 26th at the Newton Highlands Workshop.

—Statesmen at Washington are about as happy toward one another as a couple of women who meet at a bridge party and find they are wearing identical hats. NLRB.

Anniversary-

many years was the good angel of the village.

With them, we must not forget Mrs. Emma Hayward who, while with the Trust Company, gave enough of her time to the Savings bank to make it possible for it to do business—first in a room on the second floor of Bray Hall and then, as this was too inconvenient for depositors, we moved down to the back room where Alford Brothers now do business. In these two locations we paid rent thanks in the first place to Mellen Bray and in the second place to the N. C. Trust Co., who also fitted up a cage for us.

Mrs. Hayward is still alive and active after having worked with us from 1896 to 1916 when she resigned. She recently wrote me as follows: "With all my heart I can add a word of appreciation regarding Messrs. Chester, Bray, and Jones. The finest men in my way that could possibly be—in fact—very superior, and if I were able to make any success in my work at Newton Centre it was due to the kindness, courtesy, and helpfulness of these three men."

It was not so very long ago that William Noble, who for so long served us so ably as attorney, proudly exhibited Bank Book No. 1 still an active account and even now, after his death, held by his son.

The first clerk of the corporation was Frederick Hovey, who about that time held the National Lawn Tennis Championship. He was the son of Alvah Hovey, who was well known president of the Newton Theological Seminary.

The first treasurer of the Savings Bank was the white-haired, white-bearded George Warren, who succeeded by Mellen Bray who carried on the duties of treasurer for years.

Of the original trustees of 50 years ago, we still have with us Edward Jones, the first president, and Frank J. Hale, trustee and for many years on the investment committee. He was instrumental in starting a branch at the Saco-Lowell Shops in Upper Falls. This was in 1927 and continued until 1932 when the shops moved from town. Mr. Rice and Mr. Kimball (treasurer) were also interested in starting this branch and Mr. Kimball and Mr. Nutter kept an eye on its operation while E. H. Alexander, the paymaster at the shops, did the actual receiving, etc. An iron grille was set up in one corner of the Inn and Mr. Alexander would go there two evenings a week.

Our present president, William Rice, and I were elected to the corporation in 1909 and Trustees in 1910. Mr. Rice then became treasurer and I became clerk in 1915. Harry Kendall then became president and served until 1922 when William Rice came into the office as president, and as carrying on to our great satisfaction to this date, with a bank whose growth has been steady year after year and growing from nothing at the start fifty years ago to resources at the present time of over eleven million dollars.

We paid depositors 4 per cent interest in 1897, but in 1904 the rate was reduced to 3 1/2 per cent. In 1915, we were back again at 4 per cent and in 1930 we reached our highest of 5 per cent. Unfortunately, we are now down to 2 percent with a prospect of seeing the interest rate reduced even further.

Our first mortgage in 1896 was for $5000 at 5 per cent. Next loans ran from 5 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent and some even 6 per cent.

Even as late as 1911 our real estate loans totalled less than $400,000 while now they are over 4 million dollars—an increase of almost ten times in 35 years.

As we look back 50 years, we find the names of our first incorporators well known men of the time, but only two of them now alive.

Incorporators: E. H. Mason, B. E. Taylor, F. H. Hovey, Judge R. R. Bishop, W. M. Flanders, D. H. Andrews, A. F. Hayward, George Warren, C. Rufus Brown, Seward W. Jones, C. A. Vinal, C. H. Guild, George Bullen, F. Edmonds, J. J. Noble, Wm. M. Noble, E. Fanning, Mellen Bray, Arthur Muldoon, I. R. Stevens, F. J. Hale, W. R. Dresser, Dwight Chester, E. F. Colburn, and H. K. Dresser.

Trustees: David H. Andrews, Mellen Bray, Dwight Chester, Erastus T. Colburn, Harry K. Dresser, William M. Flanders, Frank J. Hale, Seward W. Jones, Arthur Muldoon, John J. Noble, William M. Noble and George F. Richardson.

The present officers are: president, William H. Rice; vice presidents, A. L. Harwood Jr., Irving C. Paul; treasurer, William H. Wragg; assistant treasurer, Betty D. Trow; clerk of corporation and trustees; Harry J. Carlson, and the present trustees: John M. Bierer, Harry P. Bradford, Harry J. Carlson, F. Gasbarri, Frank J. Hale, A. L. Harwood Jr., Joseph B. Jamieson, Seward W. Jones, Neil Leonard, H. E. Locke, C. S. Luitwieler, Metcalf W. Melcher, Oscar E. Nutter, J. Earle Parker, Irving C. Paul, Brooks Potter, L. S. Pruyne, William H. Rice, Frank L. Richardson, G. Wilbur Thompson, S. W. Wilder, James Willing, Clark E. Woodward.

Present Corporators.—John M. Bierer, Harry P. Bradford, Robert Burgess, Harry J. Carlson, Lucius C. Chandler, Sam T. Emery, Douglas B. Francis, F. Gasbarri, Paul M. Goddard, Moses H. Gulesian, Norman A. Hall, Frank J. Hale, A. Leslie Harwood, Jr., Joseph B. Jamieson, E. Prentiss Jones, Seward W. Jones, Neil Leonard, H. E. Locke, Clarence Luitwieler, John Marshall, Metcalf W. Melcher, Fred L. Morgan, Oscar E. Nutter, J. Earle Parker, Irving C. Paul, Brooks Potter, Roger Preston, L. Sumner Pruyne, William H. Rice, Frank L. Richardson, Philip Saunders, Hon. John V. Spaulding, Charles Sprague, Linnell E. Studley, G. Wilbur Thompson, John M. Tomb, James A. Waters, Salmon W. Wilder, James Willing, Clark E. Woodward.

It should be recorded in closing that if the bank has been of service to the community (and that it has been shown by its growth) then it is because of the unselfish and intelligent work of its corporators, trustees and officers who have given freely of their time and experience to make this a successful bank.

Mr. Joseph Earl Perry, President of the Newton Savings Bank, and former state banking commissioner, delivered the principal address. Mr. Perry spoke substantially as follows:

I very much appreciate the honor of bringing the greetings of the Savings Banks of Newton to the Newton Centre Savings Bank on their 50th Anniversary and, incidentally, that honor came to me because I happen to be at the moment the head of the oldest bank in Newton, the Newton Savings Bank which has been operating for one hundred seventeen years.

Men and women are classified and identified by the things to which they give their allegiance. We should, therefore, be proud that we have assembled here through our common desire to pay our tribute to the achievements and services of this institution, and, to me, this means the leadership of one man, "Will" Rice. For Mr. Rice has been, to me at least, the Bank. As an outsider coming into the community, I have heard only the kindest of words about "Will" Rice. To me he stands as the living symbol of a splendid institution, respected by one and all, a man of great kindness, of great public spirit, of great courage and of very great modesty.

I am going to speak chiefly about some of the broader aspects of the situation in which we find ourselves today. There appears to be some sort of rough agreement among scientists that human beings have existed on this planet for at least two to three millions of years. That is a great many, many years; yet, out of all that vast array, the year that began on the evening of May 7, 1945 when, in a little red schoolhouse in Rheims, France, the German commanders formally ended the European war and that ended less than two months ago, was the most crucial of all for it marked the end of one era and the beginning of a new one. Never before in human experience has there been so great and so sharply defined a transition period condensed into a single year. In that sense, we are standing at the dawn of a new epoch in history.

Only the perspective of this can determine the true proportions of the four major events of this past year but in terms of their long-range significance, they may fall into this order of importance:

First: The beginning of what we currently call the atomic age; Second: The beginning of unified, world-wide political organization; Third: The end of the greatest of wars; Fourth: The beginning of what may be a century of peace.

Just as each of these was the culmination of a long series of causes so, too, they are themselves causes whose effects will be long and profound. At any rate, we stand at a crossroad in history. One road might easily lead to the virtual destruction of civilization as we know it. The other could lead to a civilization so vastly superior to any heretofore known as to exceed the present capacity for human imagination.

It seems crystal clear as we stand on the threshold of the new era, that the supreme quest of mankind has become the Mastery of the Art of Living Together. In so complex a world that is as baffling as it is imperative. Half the world has been destroyed, the other half impoverished. . . . We have a world submerged in poverty, fear, suspicion, despair and confusion. . . .

If we are to build the incomparably better world of the future it will take vision and faith and courage and sacrifice. Somehow the world must evolve a philosophy or religion or attitude which will unite, rather than divide, men and communities and nations; that will rise above those things which separate men such as race, creed, geography, economic differences; that will dignify the individual man and give him vision and courage and hope. . . .

In the Natural History Museum at New York is an exhibit called "The Alphabet of the Universe." It shows samples of all of the known chemical elements—just under a hundred of them. . . . If the world is to achieve its century of peace, must it not, similarly, discover and learn to use the alphabet of human conduct, those basic, irreducible factors out of which the world of human activities is constructed? . . .

Only with the evolution of man came a sense of spiritual values—a distinction between right and wrong, a glimpse of God. Is it not true that all we hold precious today has its origin in and owes its existence to that development of a sense of spiritual values? And so there must be included in our alphabet of the humanities a considerable number of letters in the realm of the spiritual. From that high level they will range down through the ethical to the practical, with the ultimate result that there may be no distinction between them.

However that may be, there will probably be found in that alphabet a letter closely corresponding to what we now call the principle of thrift. Somewhere along the trail up from the jungle someone, for the first time in human experience, saved something out of his plenty against the time of less abundance, and thus began the practice of thrift. . . .

How great has been the influence of thrift in the development of human society! Every home, every creative enterprise, every school, hospital, church—all the necessities and all the amenities of life—have been created and nurtured by someone's thrift. The great spiritual values have sprung largely from religion, but organized worship and religious instruction have required material wealth which has been available only through thrift. The great educational and intellectual developments have like origin. All production, all commerce, all human achievement owe their existence to thrift.

The creation and operation of a serviceable instrumentality for the practice of thrift is one of the highest of all human callings. . . . It is important to us that the mutual savings bank is an extraordinarily ideal instrumentality for thrift. It is not the only thrift institution but it is the oldest, the safest, the largest, the most economical, the most versatile and the most useful of all agencies dedicated to the promotion and safeguarding of thrift. . . . No other financial instrumentality ever known in any age or country has even closely approached the record of the mutual savings banks. And the mutual savings banks themselves have never in all their long history been so safe and sound, so useful, so forward looking as they are at the present time.

HIS EXCELLENCY, the Most Reverend Richard J. Cushing, D.D., Archbishop of Boston, who at the invitation of His Eminence, Cardinal J. M. Rodrigue Villeneuve, O.M.I., Archbishop of Quebec, will preach the principal annual Triduum at the world-famous shrine of Ste. Anne de Beauce in Quebec, Canada, during the three-day period of prayer which ends on the Feast of Ste. Anne, Friday, July 26, and includes Wednesday and Thursday, July 24 and 25. Archbishop Cushing is personally leading the greatest pilgrimage in America's religious history to the Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beauce during the week starting July 22.

In a world of doubt and confusion the mutual savings banks stand as a great beacon to point the way toward the unchanging verities of life; in a period of dependence they exemplify and encourage frugality and self reliance; in a world harassed by fears, shattered by military conflict, torn and hesitating between conflicting ideologies the mutual savings banks and the philosophies for which they stand furnish an unshaken core of stability around which to rally the courage and wisdom and vision of mankind.

The great mass movements of mankind are really but the composite of the attitudes of millions of individuals and groups and communities. If we want peace it must originate in the hearts of individual men and women. If we

George H. Larsen will be village chairman in Newton; Ferdinand B. Brigham, Newton Highlands, Henry S. C. Cummings in Oak Hill and Philip VerPlanck in Waban. Messrs. Larsen, Brigham and VerPlanck have been workers in the Advance Gifts Division for many years. Mr. VerPlanck having been a previous chairman. In Newtonville, Frederic B. Eastman is village chairman assisted by Ralph Brown and Ralph W. Conant as assistant chairmen. In West Newton William Albert Gallup will be village chairman, assisted by Harold B. Cranshaw, Assistant Chairman. All of these leaders have in the past been prominently identified with Chest Campaigns.

Chairman Kennedy recently entertained his village chairmen and assistants at a dinner at the Brae Burn Country Club with Lawrence B. Damon, president of the Chest, Franklin K. Hoyt, 1947 Campaign Chairman and Charles H. Myers, Assistant Campaign Chairman as his guests. On this occasion village meetings for all Advance Gifts workers were scheduled for early October and Mr. Kennedy urged 100 per cent attendance at those meetings so that all in the Division who are to collect funds will have a complete understanding of the 1947 needs of the Red Feather services associated with the Greater Boston Community Fund in general and the Newton Community Chest in particular.

With a quota of 130 workers,

Garden Club

The Newton Upper Falls Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Elmer Atwell, 36 Indiana terrace on Monday July 22, at 7:00 p.m. Mrs. John Donlon will serve as co-hostess.

Mr. William Cassidy of Needham, Mass., will be the guest speaker. Subject: "Gardens", illustrated by colored motion pictures. Roll call will be answered by naming a vine that is admired for beauty and members will bring a small branch of same. There will be refreshments and prizes.

—The old-fashioned woman who married her husband for better or worse now has a daughter who marries her husband for sooner or later.

122 have already been enrolled. Mr. Kennedy states that he expects that before the enrollment period is over the Advance Gifts Division will well exceed this quota as he expects there will be at least 150 well qualified men enlisted to cover the prospects assigned to the Division.

Mr. Kennedy further states that his program calls for the completion of all advance solicitation prior to the opening of the Residential campaign with his Division "over the top" at the time of the Opening Dinner. In the 1945 Campaign the Municipal Division reports 100 per cent of its goal on this occasion and Mr. Kennedy sees no reason why the Advance Gifts Division cannot equal that record in the 1947 Campaign.

may be admitted without aptitude tests; all others will be required to take them. These courses consist of thirty clock hours per week, with 70% of the time devoted to shop work and 30% to related work.

* Explanation of course numbering: First number means year of subject; second number means hours per week in class and/or laboratory; third number means credit hours.

War II Vets—

Mass. Dept. of Education. All candidates passing this course will be given credit over those not taking this course in final marks at the next regular Civil Service examination, which will be held in the near future. Actual date to be announced later.

Chief John Keating of the Newton Fire Dept. is very anxious to have a large class of candidates take this course, as there will be about 30 appointments made in his department before the fall of this year, to enable the new 70 hour or 10 group plan of working hours to be put in to practice.

The starting salary for new firemen is $1840.00 with an annual step increase rate to $2240.00 maximum and at present a $300.00 temporary increase given monthly in so-called "Bonus Form." An annual vacation of 2 weeks with pay, sick leave, 1 week at full pay, 2 weeks at half pay plus 1 day for each year of service to be counted in halves (permanent status) plus time off under new system, should make this position ideal for any veteran who is seeking a steady income for life and security in old age by a pension.

These courses are free to Veterans of World War I with the following requirements. Each veteran must present a copy of his discharge together with a certificate of his residence in the State of Mass. from the city or town clerk where he resided prior to his entering the service of the United States. Any veteran de-

Rotary Club

Bobby Doerr, the 1946 edition of baseball's outstanding second baseman, addressed the Newton Rotary Club Monday and answered questions fired at him in rapid succession. Bobby attributed the current success of the Red Sox to the outstanding work of three pitchers, Hughson, Ferris, and Harris, a factor which had been absent in former years for the pennant. He felt certain the Sox would win the pennant if their "luck" held out. By "luck" he meant freedom from injuries. Any team can go to pieces if one or two key men are out for any considerable time with injuries.

"Ted Williams," he said, "is not only a natural athlete, but a very intelligent student of the game, particularly batting." He explained that Ted usually has a plan in mind when he goes to bat. Frequently, he is foiled by being intentionally passed, siring to take this course who is now a resident of Newton and was not a resident of Mass. prior to his military service can take this course and is eligible to take the examination but will have to pay a fee of $10.00 for the course.

Applicants are urged to enroll immediately as preparations are now complete and ready to get under way. For further information contact Mass. Dept. of Education, 200 Newbury st., Boston, Mass., Chief Keating, Big. 0030, (Days only), Officers at Engine 1, Newton Corner, or the Commander of your own veterans organization.

but since a fourth of his hits are home runs, the plans seem to work pretty well.

When asked what the players thought of their manager, he paid Cronin the finest compliment a player can give his manager. "Cronin," he said, "is using his head all the time and the boys like to work for him."

Some one asked about York's contribution to the Sox. Bobby answered that they had found York to be a smart ball player and a great steady influence on the team.

Rotarians dug into Bobby's past and learned he began his baseball career as a second baseman on a Los Angeles American Legion team at 14 years of age. On that team w. 1 six future league players. Two years later he broke into the Coast League and in 1937 was purchased by the Red Sox. His most embarrassing moment? Caught five feet off second base after batting a two-bagger in his first appearance before 34,000 people in Fenway Park.

Police Searching for Ill Boy's Bicycle

Joseph Torchia, 39 Henshaw street, West Newton, rode his new bicycle to Norumbega Park, last week, for a final look at his favorite place of recreation before he entered the hospital for a serious operation. A "Dayton," maroon and cream colored, Joe's pride and joy is now being sought by police and citizens, so's to bring a bit of cheer to the ailing boy.

Take a Safety Expert's word for it

GET THE NEW B.F. GOODRICH SILVERTOWN AND KNOW YOU'RE SAFE!

The new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown has been tested by experts! By experts like Col. A. R. Killiam (shown here), Superintendent of Indiana State Police, who helped put the tire through miles of carefully recorded road tests. Millions of miles of tests proved the super-safe construction of the new B.F. Goodrich tire.

Come in and see us today for the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES!

You can get earlier delivery if you see us NOW!

"Outwears Prewar Tires!" Those magic words have made the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown tire the most wanted tire on the market — because those words state an honest fact conclusively proven by millions of miles of carefully recorded tests and millions more miles of consumer driving!

What does the new B.F. Goodrich tire have? It has B.F. Goodrich's own "road level" tread to give you more rubber to share the wear ... more tread to stop on ... more traction to hug the curves. It has tougher cords and more of 'em to give it a far stronger body. Even at high speeds, the new Silvertown OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES.

That's what the telephone company is doing by putting more people on party lines

Since telephone equipment is still short due largely to material shortages, we're having to "divvy up" telephone service — put more and more people on party lines. In places where our present facilities permit us to add new telephones, this method enables us to serve more people than would otherwise be possible.

At present, more than 7 out of every 10 telephone users in New England are on party line service and the proportion will grow even greater in the next few months. That's what makes it all the more important for everyone to be a good party line neighbor. Your thoughtfulness in avoiding long telephone conversations invites the same courtesy towards you from others.

Four Day Fiesta in Honor of Our Lady of Mount Carmine

Following Exercises, 1000 Members Parade on Church Grounds

The four day fiesta in honor of Our Lady of Mount Carmine held on the grounds of the Church of Our Lady, Newton on July 18, 19, 20 and 21st under the auspices of St. Mary of Carmel Society, closed on Sunday afternoon with a parade through the streets of Nonantum in which over 1000 members of the society took part followed by exercises on the church grounds.

Comencio Venditti was master of ceremonies. Among the speakers were Rev. Michael Doherty, pastor of the church, Rev. Daniel J. Taglino, spiritual leader of the society, and Mayor Paul M. Goddard who also led the parade. Mayor Goddard stressed the importance between church and civic affairs, and stated that the Church of Our Lady had the largest representation of men in the armed services of any church in the city, and also lost the highest number in its death toll. Other speakers were presidents of the following organizations: Sons of Italy, Arcese Society, St. Goiano Society, Women's Benevolent Society of Thompsonville, Women's Society of St. Mary's of Carmel, Women's Society of Monte Carmelo, Fiori D'Italo, daughters of Italy, Post 6 of Italian-American Veterans of Foreign Wars, all of Newton, and St. Mary of Grace, Watertown; St. Rocco of Natick, Pucini Band of Melrose, Drill Team of Our Lady's High, Newton, Holy Name Society of Our Lady's Church, and the band of St. Patrick's, Watertown.

The fiesta was sponsored for the purpose of financing a new altar in the lower church commemorating the boys who died in the service.

Baseball Day At The Kiwanis Club

Introduced by Robert Burns, Freddie Maguire, one of the greatest fielding second basemen in the history of big league baseball, told innumerable yarns concerning his days in the Big Time, at the Wednesday meeting of the Newton Kiwanis Club, at the Y.

Freddie, one of Holy Cross College's diamonds greats, went with the New York Giants after graduation from Holy Cross and later sold to the Chicago Cubs, eventually wound up with the Boston Braves.

He's now coach at Boston College—has been doing a great job up there for the past seven years—but still loves to talk about big league play, especially his pals of a great era, Rabbit Maranville, Judge Fuchs, Al Spohrer, Ed. Brandt, Freddie Frankhouse and a host of others that made baseball in these parts, a decade and a half ago.

Maguire finds, he said, that baseball interest in the small towns is waning. Each year, he continued, the fans pay less attention to hometown talent, the "Big Boys" claiming their interest. The result, Freddie continued.

OPA IS NOT THE ONLY PROBLEM

Without doubt the will to combat inflation is unanimous, but to remain convinced that OPA is the dominating factor in the fight against inflation amounts to shutting one's eyes to much in the situation. Anti-OPA members of Congress see prices as results of various causes and are not convinced that suppression of the consequences of inflation is a cure for inflation, or even that such suppression can be attempted without worse consequences. The responsibility for the acceleration of the wage-price spiral lies with the same planners who now claim that drastic and rigid price controls are necessary to suppress that spiral.

The government economists who were listened to, foretold great mass unemployment in opposition to the views of business planners, and those "experts" still supply the substance of official statements and departmental memoranda circulated to the public. These theorists stated that industry would pay large wage increases without raising prices, and when higher wages came, industry found its per capita output falling to new lows, which doubly proved the fallacy of the theorists.

The Administration, however, and such wage policy as we have, follows the concept of the theorists. Strikes throughout the land have played havoc with postwar reconstruction, and at the same time so advanced costs that price controls have amounted to tangled theory. Many honest manufacturers have sold their products at a net loss by anyone's figuring in order to maintain their law-abiding record and to hold their business, so costly to build up.

The rail, coal and steel strikes cost us plenty of billions, but how many citizens or consumer groups sought protection from the decisions so graciously made in granting Mr. Lewis and his friends their wishes. All these costs inescapably must appear in the cost of living, plus countless others.

As to trends, in a bill before Congress the same Administrative leadership now seeks a 50% increase in the Social Security Tax, an additional $818,000,000 annually, even though all evidence before the committees points to ample funds in hand and in sight. That increased tax would be just another factor, and to illustrate the confusion in policies that bill presents a new old-age formula wherein a couple who have paid nothing into the funds are entitled to $120.00 per month, whereas the breadwinner, who has paid into the fund for years, with his wife, receive only $85.60 per month.

The central problem lies in too much bureaucracy, too little experience, too little honest, practical judgment, and excessive operating costs. Sending peaches from Georgia to a small Maine cannery for canning, along with a million pounds of sugar, and billions of pounds of meat and fats to other countries, much of which is not for relief, are just part of the problem. Our taxes are paying for more Federal employees within our state than the total of all state and municipal employees combined. The total Federal payroll today is reported as 18 billions. These excessive costs, including bureaucracy, transcend any black market figures, shameful as they may be.

Our government itself, along with its endless cohorts, has caused more increased costs than any factor within control of business or industry. OPA is only part of a problem; let's tell Congress how we feel.

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Board of Aldermen

One of our Aldermen suggested to me last week that the July 22 session of the Board would be exceedingly interesting, owing to the proposed change in our pension system for city employees. It was impossible to get down to City Hall until about ten o'clock and I had incorrectly figured that the Board would by that time have come out of its prolonged recess and would be discussing the pension issue. No such luck. A long hearing on this matter had only just closed and the Board had broken up into the usual long committee meetings. Accordingly, I spent the next four hours chatting with Water Commissioner Joe Murray, an old friend of mine, the famous Jim Gallagher, who is one of Newton's best toastmasters on any and all occasions, George Cashman, who once upon a time ran for some office in this city, former Alderman John Temperley and many, many others. Alderman Lockwood had jokingly told me that the Board would reconvene about 1:50 a. m. and he hit it right on the nose. BUT, there was no discussion of the new pension plan or anything else of much interest or importance. Consequently, I arrived home again shortly after 3 a. m. and wondered why I had gone down to City Hall at all.

Now, this is mentioned in some detail because it so happens that this was the third consecutive meeting which had adjourned at 2:30 a. m. or later. Even the Aldermen are getting fed up and President Jamieson sounded them out on a possible change in procedure starting next September. The new system would call for weekly, shorter meetings until the Board caught up with its work. The regular procedure provides for two meetings only in the course of a month. Maybe there would be a larger attendance of ordinary citizens to watch the City Fathers transact their business if it was not necessary to give up a whole night's sleep in order to do so. Why not contact your own Alderman and tell him you approve the idea? It will help him and it will also give you a chance to see the municipal wheels turn.

G.O.P. Moonlight Sail

The customary moonlight sail down the harbor was taken by the Republican Club of Mass., and their friends on July 18. The entire state ticket, except for Attorney General Barnes, who was detained on important business elsewhere, showed up and those who had taken part in the usual raffle had the pleasure of having Henry Cabot Lodge and Robert F. Bradford draw the lucky numbers. Lucy Sybil H. Holmes, formerly of Brookline and the only lady Senator ever to sit on Beacon Hill, won a pair of nylons. President Douglas Lawson of the Republican Club saw to it that everybody had a good time and Chairman Groux and his wife and former Chairman George B. Rowell and his wife were also on hand. It was a delightful quarter. Your columnist was a bit weary and decided to stay put in one place most of the evening, first on the forward deck and then, when it got cooler, just inside. Fortunately, about every body of importance chanced to walk by at one time or another. Arthur W. Coolidge, the G. O. P. nominee for Lt. Governor, Laurence Curtis, running for Treasurer and Russell A. Wood, candidate for Auditor all stopped and chatted. Lodge and Bradford got tied up farther aft and then were hooked for the raffle, so I had to dig them up after the nylons had run out. Both men looked extremely fit and had an air of real confidence. If Governor Tobin and Senator Walsh are victorious in November, they will have had a terrific struggle, unless my judgment is very, very bad.

Lodge vs. Walsh

Perhaps those of my readers who saw Cornelius Dalton's interesting column in the Boston Traveler on July 20, on the editorial page, was as puzzled as I was. He had a lot to say about the Lodge-Walsh contest, which he appears to consider a much closer proposition than some of the polls. Here, however, is the puzzling statement:—"The Walsh-Lodge campaign will be an unusual one because the candidates will treat each other kindly. (Isn't that lovely?). They got along well when they served in the Senate together, so well, in fact, that it would be rather difficult for one to attack the other's record without attacking himself."

Well, well and again well. I always thought that one of these statesmen was a Republican and the other was a Democrat. Furthermore, I do not seem to recall that these two men have always voted alike. Walsh has long been dubbed an isolationist and I doubt if Lodge would appreciate being placed in the same boat with Walsh on that score. I'll grant that Walsh failed to do very much for the late Mr. Roosevelt and that he frequently voted against pet New Deal measures. However, that does not mean that Lodge and Walsh see eye-to-eye on most pieces of legislation. Has it really come to the point where there are NO differences between the Republican and Democratic policies? There is much food for thought here IF it is really true that one cannot "attack the

Tel. and Tel. Co. Pays Quarterly Dividend of $1.50

The following is a statement to stockholders by President J. E. Harrell of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, accompanying the quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share payable today:

"TO THE STOCKHOLDERS: The dividend of $1.50 for this second quarter of 1946 is the same as that paid in the first quarter.

"The equipment we need to expand telephone facilities is being received in growing amounts and we are installing it promptly. But the total requirements are so huge that it will be many months before we can furnish telephones without delay for all applicants, relieve heavily overloaded central offices and toll lines, and restore highest standards of service.

"In keeping pace with deliveries of central office equipment we have increased the force of specialists for installing it from 200 to nearly 650 men. By fall, we expect this force to grow to a thousand or more.

"Although we installed nearly 169,000 telephones from January 1 to June 1, the continuing extremely high concurrent demand for service left 80,325 unfilled applications for main telephones. The net gain in telephones in those five months was 112,229, exceeding by far the gain in any calendar year of our history and constituting the major part of a record breaking 12-months' gain of 174,463 dating from June 1, 1945.

"During the same five months telephone calling was at a level substantially higher than during the corresponding period of 1945. Toll calls, averaging 450,000 a day, were higher by nearly twenty-five per cent. Local calls averaged in excess of 8,750,000 a day, or about fourteen per cent more than a year ago.

"Limited commercial distribution of streptomycin, the new wonder drug, is expected to begin about September 1.

Frederick Huntington Gillett of Massachusetts is the only man from this state who has been Speaker of the House of Representatives in Washington since 1857. Gillett served from 1919-1925 and then was U. S. Senator for one six-year term.

This week's question is:—"The late John L. Bates, who once lived in our city, was Speaker of the Mass. House of Representatives from 1897-1899. He was Governor from 1903-1905. Now, since the Bates regime there have been fourteen Speakers of the House on Beacon Hill. Only two of the fourteen were ever elected Governor. Name the two men."

The Free Library, Newton, will be lighted with electricity for the first time, either Saturday or Monday.

The Rapid Transit Commission, the Charles River Improvement, and the Harvard bridge commissions, made a trip up the Charles in the William Wooley steam-tug, yesterday, to see what the possibilities were for improving the banks of the river by parks and driveways. Mayor Hibbard, Mayor Matthews of Boston and Mayor Alger of Cambridge were on board and the tug had quite an adventurous time getting through the drawbridges. Finally it got as far as the Watertown arsenal, and concluding not to sail further in the mud, the tug turned back. A public meeting is to be held in September when facts as to the ownership of land will be presented.

The bath houses at Bullough's pond, Newtonville, are visited by large numbers. Recently on a week day, 212 persons went in bathing and the daily average is about 175.

Ground was broken Wednesday afternoon for the new home of the Newton Club, which will be located at the corner of Highland avenue and Walnut street, Newtonville.

The bonny nymphs who cluster around Echo Bridge, Newton Upper Falls, are away on their vacations this week and the most enticing voice can only induce one or two answers, but they will all return again as soon as the water in the river is higher.

Howe's block is no more. The controversy about the portion left standing was settled last week when the "other half" was purchased by the Boston & Albany. The remainder of the old block has been an eyesore to the residents of Wards 1 and 7 for some time, and they have not spared their criticisms of the city government for allowing it to remain standing so long. Everybody was quite happy when they saw contractor Heald's men busily at work tearing the old building down Monday. Newton item.

Camp Patoma Opens in Holliston

Camp Patoma officially opened July first with an enrollment of 54 children, 33 boys and 21 girls. As one of the camp heads told me, it certainly is a hand-picked group, which, of course, is true.

In the Girls' Camp, Assistant Directors in charge, is Miss Patricia Leydon, B.S., Sargent College, '44. For the past two years she has been head of Physical Education at Cushing Academy and will next fall be Director of Physical Education at Ferry Hall, Lake Forest, Illinois. She has taken the Counselor Training Course at Sargent and been with the Brookline Day Camps for many years and will assume direction of all the physical education at the Girls' Camp.

Miss Mary Rose McWilliams, A.B., Radcliffe, '46, with much experience in nature and boating, has charge of the nature work in the camp. Miss Carolyn Benner, graduate of Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., who for the past two years has been in charge of music at Cushing Academy, has charge of music and archery. Mrs. Jean Budding Cousins, graduate of Skidmore College and teacher of dancing at Lasell Junior College, on the Brookline Day Camp staff last year, has charge of dancing. Miss Evelyn Marsh, graduate of Occupational Therapy School, with several years' experience in girls' camps, is in charge of handicrafts.

All of the above are instructors in swimming also and have already shown results.

In charge of the Boys' Camp is Mr. Ralph Sanborn, Faculty Manager of Athletics at Newton High School, for many years a coach and counselor at fine boarding camps, a member of Brookline Day Camp staff last year. He will also have charge of handicrafts.

Mr. Thomas B. Hartigan, B.S., Boston University, Director of Physical Education in the Brookline schools and three years a member of the Brookline Day Camp staff, will have charge of group games, tumbling, and posture work.

Mr. F. Ervin Prince, A.B., Dartmouth, who was five years teacher of swimming, American Red Cross Examiner, Counselor at Camp Chewonki, and coach of sports at Rivers Country Day School, will be waterfront director and in charge of baseball.

Mr. John McGrail, graduate of Teachers' College, Boston, in charge of Physical Education in the Rochester, N. H. High school, with several years of camp counseling experience, will have charge of group games and instruction in wrestling and boxing.

Mr. John Ventura, B.S., Ed.M., Boston University, Principal of Belmont Junior High school, with

Hearings were held on the following petitions:

Raytheon Manufacturing Company, for permit to store and use hydrogen gas at 55 Chapel street, Ward 2; to be stored in cylinders, maximum quantity at one time, 60,000 cubic feet; for private use.

Daniel F. Barbo, owner, Woodrow Cureton, occupant, for permit to conduct and maintain a repair shop, three car capacity, at rear of 1381 Washington street, Ward 3.

Representatives of the various city departments appeared in favor of the proposed change of the retirement system. Under the present system employees pay 4 per cent of their salaries weekly and the city pays an equal amount. The proposed system, such as in effect for teachers, would call for a contribution of 5 per cent from employees, but would result in greater benefits, according to those who spoke in favor of the petition.

The question before the board is "Shall Section 1, through 28, of Chapter 32, General Laws, be accepted as the provisions of law applicable to the operation of the Newton Contributory Retirement System, in preference to the present Newton Contributory Retirement Law, operated under Special Act of the Legislature?"

NEWTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

FIRE PREVENTION SERVICE

FIRE PROTECTION SERVICE

The careless use and disposal of matches and "smokes" are the largest cause of fires. They are increasing daily due to the ever growing number of people that are starting to take up smoking.

These two articles are grouped together because of their close association and the difficulty of readily determining just which one was the actual cause. Matches are the largest element in this hazard and cigarettes in the smoking materials due to the large numbers that are smoked.

Any kind of a match may cause a fire under certain conditions. A good grade of safety matches that strike only on the box are best. Strike-anywhere matches may ignite by friction in the pocket or by being stepped on.

All types of matches should be kept out of the way of children and persons that are not responsible. Children when old enough should be taught the dangers that can happen from the misuse of matches and how to avoid them. It is well to remember this, "A match has a head but no brains, we should use our brains when we use a match."

While it is true that all discarded "smokes" do not cause a fire, you can never depend on them. You do not know when one will be involved in an ideal set-up to start a fire. Be sure that they are out and not left smoldering so that children can not burn themselves or set a fire if they should play with them. Place them in an ash tray, never in a waste basket.

For your own safety do not smoke in bed. If you should happen to become drowsy and lay the "smoke" on the bedding carelessly without realizing it may ignite it. The fumes from the burning bedding may asphyxiate you without your even knowing what is happening to you.

For the convenience of your household keep several ash trays handy for those who do use "smokes." If they are handy people will use them.

Matches should not be used to hunt for articles in dark closets or places where there are combustible articles. Be safe, use a flashlight. If you use that particular place very often have an experienced electrician install a regular light fixture.

Brush fires have had a large increase this week due to the extended dry spell, therefore we all must do our part to avoid these unnecessary fires. Be sure all matches and "smokes" are dead before disposing of them, this will help stop some of these fires.

HELPFUL HEALTH HINTS

Prepared by
NEWTON TUBERCULOSIS and HEALTH ASS'N, Inc.

POSTURE

Posture and health influence each other, says a bulletin issued today, in the interests of better health, by the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association. Good health usually is accompanied by good posture, and good posture is an aid to health.

Posture refers to the relative positions in which the parts of the body are placed. For example, the position of the head and neck in relation to the shoulders is one aspect of posture. The curve in the spine is another. Our posture is always with us, whether we are standing, sitting, walking or lying in bed.

Good posture results from good health, good nutrition, a reasonable amount of exercise, good spirits, and good habits of sitting, standing and walking.

Bad posture, if it cramps vital organs or distorts bone or muscle shape, may injure the health. But poor posture is more likely to be a sign of, rather than the cause of, ill health. Faulty or inadequate diet, overwork or extreme fatigue, and various physical disorders all may cause incorrect posture.

Badly-fitting clothes and shoes, improper seating at work, at school, or at home, and sagging or lumpy bed springs and mattresses may also have an undesirable effect on posture. The manner in which books, handbags and packages are carried can cause changes in one's shoulders and spine.

An optimistic, happy frame of mind usually is accompanied by good posture, and feelings of depression and discouragement often lead to improper posture. This works both ways—good posture may raise your spirits and bad posture lower them. So you see that the problems of health, posture, and mental outlook are intertwined.

Important as good posture is, doctors now recognize that it is not the same for everyone. All persons are not built alike. Tall, slender people for example, naturally tend to walk, sit or stand somewhat differently from short, stocky people.

A doctor should be consulted regarding any serious defects of posture.

Rotary Club

Harold F. Young, Newton City Street Commissioner, was the speaker at the meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Monday.

Mr. Young who was introduced by Ted Lockwood, spoke on the work of his Department in the City and pointed out that the Department is at work on a program to give Newton better service. Some new equipment has been purchased and additional personnel secured, but more is still needed. It will take some time before the Department can operate at its best efficiency. He pointed out that Newton was a large area with 277 miles of streets. In addition, the Department is responsible for the Forestry Division which maintains parks and public grounds. He explained new measures of efficiency in the accounting of the Department and told of some phases of the program for reconstruction and repair that is now under way.

A new member, George Grant, was inducted by Dr. Ansley. Grant comes under the general classification of Machinery and Equipment, and the sub-classification of Experimental Machinery Parts and Manufacturing. Frank Simmons, a member of the Club, who is Director of Camp Frank A. Day, invited the Club to Camp at East Brookfield on Monday, August 5th. Rotarians will leave Newton about 2:30 and return that evening.

Information For Veterans on WCOP

"A weekly radio program designed to guide the veteran through the maze of incomplete, partially misleading and often discouraging information disseminated by many uncorrelated agencies will be instituted next Monday, July 29, at 1:45 p.m., over radio station WCOP in Boston," announced Robert Saumseigle, Chairman of the Research Committee on Special State Problems of the Massachusetts Civil League.

The first of this series of programs will clarify the present confusion existing in the minds of many veterans and their families with regard to Educational Rights and Benefits, both Federal and State. Later topics scheduled for discussion on the program will cover veterans problems in Hospitalization, Housing, Insurance, and other pertinent subjects for which State and Federal law provide benefits for veterans.

Robert Saumseigle, who is a veteran of World War II, declared that this committee finds with their continuing research, that although there are many rights and benefits available to veterans the veterans themselves are not able to get accurate factual help on how to use these benefits and are hopelessly entangled in apparently contradicting facts and misstatements of facts.

Connie Forde, known to listeners of WCOP for her regular daily program "Interviews with Important People" will introduce on this first program of the series, dealing with Education for veterans, Mr. Warren Benson, Supervisor of Guidance and Placement for the State of Massachusetts for the State Department of Education, and Mr. David K. Farnsworth, a veteran representing the committee of The Massachusetts Civil League.

These speakers will frankly and simply explain that it is not possible for veterans to go to any college that they may choose unless the particular college is approved by the Veterans Administration, there is a vacancy in the class for which he applies, and the veteran has the scholastic requirements to enter and if necessary passes certain entrance examinations. Many veterans are not fully aware of the Massachusetts State laws which supplement the Federal educational rights and benefits. These State benefits supplement the better known benefits as they were intended for that purpose and a thorough knowledge of both State and Federal laws on this subject is necessary for any veteran building his scholastic program. If a veteran needs to pass an entrance exam for college he can prepare by taking State sponsored refresher courses.

For veterans who have not graduated from high school, the Massachusetts Regional Veterans Education Centers provide facilities for the completion of this work. The veterans using present Centers in their own communities (there are 31 such Centers in operation at present during the daytime summer session) can earn their high school diplomas or high school equivalency certificates from the State Department of Education. In these courses, the veteran progresses as fast as he individually is able in a tutorial, rather than formal class plan. He can enter class at any time he chooses. During the regular high school year there will be 61 regular evening Centers in operation for this purpose.

Dining With Jane and Bill

Jane—You know, Bill, I've been completely spoiled. With Junior getting his lunch at school during the winter I've gotten out of the habit of planning lunches for him. But now that vacation is here I realize how important it is to plan a regular lunch for Junior.

Bill—Well, he certainly is an active young one. He seems to be on the go every minute of the time. He must need plenty of the right foods for supplying energy and building body tissues.

Jane—We've decided upon a regular lunch time of 12:30, so I've fixed up the bridge table out on the back porch where it is cool and quiet.

Bill—Not a bad idea! Does Junior come or do you have to call all over the neighborhood for him?

Jane—No, we talked it over and now that he has the inexpensive pocket watch you gave him for his birthday he is assuming the responsibility of getting home in time himself.

Bill—Well, that's certainly making good use of his birthday present.

Jane—These are some of the hot weather favorites we've been having:

New Jeep Station Wagon

Willys-Overland Motors "surprise of the year" is the new Jeep Station Wagon which is now in mass production. The vehicle is powered by an improved 63 HP Jeep engine, has a 104 inch wheelbase, seats 7 adults, and has an all-steel body. Designed to fill the need for an all-around car which rides with passenger car comfort and fan, with seats removed, be used as a light transport, the vehicle is meant for people who never seriously considered a station wagon before. With generous carrying space, it is a utility car for farm or business use. The aspen-grained masonite interior makes cleaning easy after utility use while the steel body eliminates varnish upkeep costs, essential with the traditional wooden station wagon.

Tel. Co. to Erect New Building in Boston

A 14-story building, primarily for a key operating center in a system of long distance telephone dialing by operators, is planned by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company for erection on part of the downtown lot bounded by Franklin, Congress, High and Pearl streets used for some years past as a parking area.

Construction of the foundation has been approved by the Civilian Production Administration and excavation work will be started as soon as possible. No determination of the completion of the building has yet been made by CPA.

The project to erect the building and to install the telephone operating equipment will cost an estimated $18,000,000, about half of which will be for the building itself and the other half for the equipment. It is the largest project in the Telephone Company's $200-million program to expand and modernize telephone facilities and improve service throughout its five-state operating territory during the next five or six years.

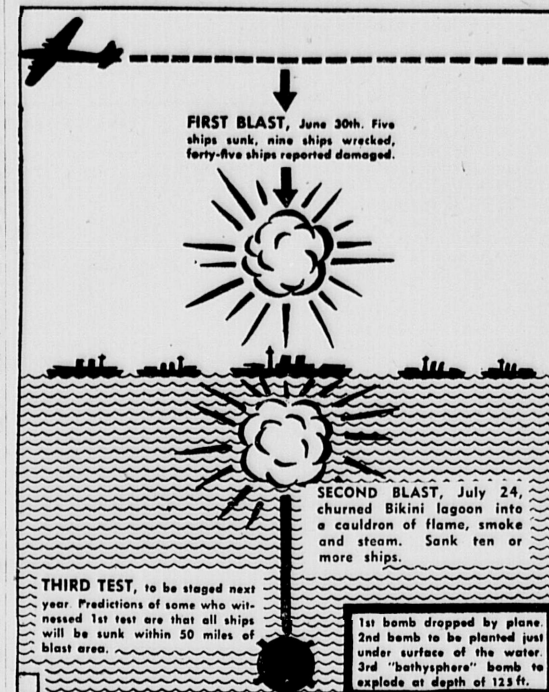

The building will occupy a ground area 180 feet square, or a little over half of the lot, and will front on Franklin street. With a penthouse on the Franklin street elevation, the building will rise to about 230 feet. Its exterior design is in a simple and economical modern style, depending for effect on good proportions rather than on ornament or architectural elaboration.

The building has been held to the smallest practicable size to meet minimum requirements for modern telephone facilities and office space. The new long distance center will serve the Metropolitan Boston area and pave the way for extending the system of operator dialing of long distance calls to cities and towns in all parts of the Company's area. Ultimately it will become a part of a nationwide toll dialing network where operators in any part of the country may reach telephones in any other part of the country by the use of this newly developed dial equipment. It is hoped that future Civilian Production Administration approval for construction of the entire building may be obtained in time to permit installation of the dial equipment for operation in the fall of 1948.

The building will also provide some urgently needed additional space to relieve crowding in administrative offices in Company buildings at 50 Oliver, 125 Milk and 245 State streets, at 6 Bowdoin Square, and in leased quarters in other buildings. With a view to the economy provided by consolidation of administrative offices in the new Franklin street building and in anticipation of additions to the initial installation of dial equipment, the building has been designed to permit future enlargement. The ultimate structure contemplated would cover practically the whole lot, with a depth from Franklin street to High street of approximately 340 feet, and rise to a total of possibly twenty-two stories.

Dial switching equipment and operators' switchboards to be housed in the new building will replace long distance switchboards and other equipment now in the building at 125 Milk street. Some equipment of a type which cannot under present conditions be immediately replaced, will remain temporarily in the Milk street building. But with inauguration of the dial-operated equipment the Milk street operating facility will move to Franklin street.

It is expected that the telephone business office in the Milk street building will be moved to Franklin street. All space left vacant at Milk street will be converted to administrative use.

The dial equipment for the new Franklin street building is of a type the Bell Telephone Laboratories had perfected before the war as a means of introducing faster handling of long distance connections. An installation of the equipment in Philadelphia in 1943 was the first of its kind and has demonstrated in actual operation its tremendous value in providing still faster service in the handling of long distance calls.

The Franklin street installation will be one of the first to be designed and manufactured since the end of the war. In this respect the telephone-using public in the Boston area is most fortunate in being among the first sections of the country to obtain the benefits of this fast, modern long distance service.

Pierce - Lewis

Miss Jeanne A. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Lewis of 803 Watertown street, West Newton, was married to Auren M. Pierce of La Mesa, California at a nuptial mass in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, July 13. Rev. John J. Crane, S.T.L., pastor of the church, performed the ceremony which was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Hotel Beaconsfield, Brookline.

The bride's gown, in princess style, was fashioned with a bodice of white satin and skirt of white net with a plume of satin. Her fingertip length veil of net fell from a Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book and an orchid. Miss Marjorie Ann Lewis of West Newton, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Rogers and Miss Elaine Boule, of West Newton, were gowned alike in old fashioned style gowns of blue faille with large picture hats and carried old fashioned bouquets.

Herbert J. Lewis, Jr., was the best man and the ushers were Richard Smith and Paul H. Gaudin of Los Angeles, California. Jerry Motta of Lawrence and Richard Savage of West Roxbury. Following a wedding trip to Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will make their home in La Mesa, California. The bride was graduated from the Newton High School in 1944 and from the Kathleen Dell School in 1946. Mr. Pierce, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Pierce, was graduated from the Grossmont High School in 1942 and attended San Diego State College. He is engaged in the real estate business.

Halfhill - Smith

Miss Margaret Coburn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coburn Smith of 33 Berkeley street, West Newton, became the bride of Donald Wesley Halfhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson Halfhill of Ashland, Oregon on Saturday, July 20. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick Morris and Rev. Norman Kellett at 5:30 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal church, Gloucester. A reception followed at the Bass Rocks' Golf Club.

The bride wore a gown of ivory faille trimmed at the neckline and sleeves with lace worn by her great-grandmother. RECENT DEATHS

Dr. Edward G. Huber

Dr. Edward Godfrey Huber, of 45 Homewood Road, Waban, associate dean of the Harvard School of Public Health and retired Army Medical Corps colonel, died suddenly on Tuesday, July 23, in his office at 55 Shattuck Street, Roxbury.

Dr. Huber was in his 65th year. He was born in Menomonee, Wisconsin, was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1903 and two years later received the degree of doctor of medicine. After a brief private practice in Missouri he entered the Army Medical School from which he was graduated with honors in 1908.

After serving in the Philippines he was sent to France during World War I, where he commanded a hospital center at Perigueux. While detailed to the First Corps Area in Boston in 1923 he accepted an offer to attend the Harvard School of Public Health. In 1929 and 1930 he served as president of Delta Omega, National Honor Society of Public Health which he had organized.

He retired from the Army in 1935 and joined the Massachusetts Department of Public Health as an epidemiologist in the tuberculosis division and a short time later became part time instructor in epidemiology at Harvard.

While at Harvard he introduced instruction and research in the newer branches of public health and was instrumental in the founding of the Harvard Public Health Alumni Bulletin. Recently he helped in obtaining funds from the Rockefeller Foundation for the further development of the school and last April was appointed professor of public health practice. He had been acting dean of the school from 1942 until his appointment as associate dean on July 1 of this year.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Frances Madison Huber and a daughter, Lucille.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Harvard Memorial Church, Cambridge. Burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia on Saturday.

Fish and Game Notes

Director James F. Power and his staff of the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Game have made enormous strides in utilizing scientific methods to further fish propagation, and the intensity of their studies has borne results which are evident to every angler. These findings which were obtained by exhaustive work both in the laboratory and in the field have been practically applied in the intricate problems of rearing and salvage operations.

Lakes, ponds and streams were studied to determine which type of fish could be most successfully stocked in them and these waters were classified into three groups: trout waters, smallmouth bass waters and largemouth bass and pickerel waters.

Much attention was given to the control of predatory fish. Studies revealed that pickerel helped maintain a proper balance of fish and that stunted fish were often the result of a lack of these carnivorous fish.

Growth rates of various fish were maintained to set standards by which growth of fish in individual ponds could be checked. Food studies of game fish have yielded valuable information as to the extent of their piscivorous nature and this knowledge has indirectly assisted the fisherman in his choice of bait.

A chemical analysis of water samples in various ponds was recorded and this study made it possible to determine the fertility of a pond.

Briefly, this should give the sportsman an idea of that part of the Division's activities with which the fishing public is not generally familiar.

Conservation Officer Al Glenn would like to know why so many anglers mistake bass for white perch. Whenever he has been compelled to bring some erring sportsman to task for having short bass or bass out of season, he has invariably received the classic reply that they thought they were white perch. Al wonders if a conducted tour of the aquarium might not be what these anglers need.

Al, whose district is in North Grafton, says that the bass season in his neighborhood has been about average and that trout fishermen are having much better luck.

Several fawns have been observed during the past week in the vicinity of Lee, and indications in that neighborhood are that we will have plenty of deer for the coming season. This news came from Conservation Officer Al Griffin of South Lee who also tells us that black bass have been biting with happy regularity in his district. Many black bass weighing over five pounds are being taken. These have all been of the large-mouthed type. The only small-mouthed bass observed was one weighing about two and three-quarter pounds which was taken on live bait.

Perhaps the most remarkable sporting notation of the year was made by Ed Backus of Ayer who observed four American egrets on the pond near the Ayer State Game Farm. It is the first time in many years that officer or sportsman has remarked upon the presence of these rare birds. It would be very interesting to know whether or not any outdoor lovers have encountered these unusual visitors. The Division would be very interested in hearing any further reports on this bird.

According to Officer John Broderick of Northampton, fishing at the Quabbin Reservoir has been far from satisfactory. During the past week, thousands of fishermen thronged the shores of this reservoir which, until recently, has been closed to all fishing. Results were very poor; most of the fish taken were of small size and a great deal of dissatisfaction was expressed by all the anglers whom Officer Broderick contacted. The fish that were taken were horned pout and sunfish with a few large pickerel and some white perch of good size.

If fish came few and far between in the Quabbin there is certainly no scarcity of deer. Conservation Officer Oscar Cregan in a three-day patrol of this territory counted more than seventy-five deer. Quabbin is perhaps the most popular haven for deer in Massachusetts, and as Officer Cregan says, it is an area that never should be open to hunting.

Announcement is made that the State Extension Service in Massachusetts has accepted the 4-H Tractor Maintenance Program for 1946. Both local 4-H Club leaders and members may take part. The program is designed to encourage proper care of farm tractors to insure longer life and efficient operation.

ON THE INSIDE

by MARVIN R. GOULD

The scene Braves Field in Boston. The date July 19, 1946. The 1946 All New England All-Star Game is about to begin as the last faint notes of the National Anthem echo back into the press box from the center field wall.

The N. E. All-Stars are in the field, their opponents The Boston Park Department All-Stars are at bat. Jeff Jones, Newton High School Varsity Baseball Coach also Chief N. E. Scout for the Boston Braves is Head Coach of the N. E. men. Everyone of the 19,808 fans waits breathless for the first pitch as Lucille Ball of motion picture fame throws out the first ball to officially open the ball game.

Almost immediately the Boston team goes ahead in the first inning by a margin of 1 run, N. E. nothing. Second inning, Boston 2, N. E. 2. Third inning, Boston 6, N. E. 2. Fourth inning no scoring for either team. Fifth inning, Boston 8, N. E. 2. John Connolly of Newton was then sent into the game at shortstop to replace George Bullard of Lynn. Once again Boston scored another run. Then came Johnny's chance to show what he could do for the N. E. team as he was the lead-off batter in the bottom half of the sixth. But what happens, he draws a walk. At the last third of the same inning the local boy is at bat once again, the first ball is inside for ball 1, 1 and 0 is the count, the next pitch is right over the plate Johnny swings, foul ball, 1 and 1 is the count, once again the pitcher takes his wind-up, Johnny glances at the score board, bases loaded, 2 outs, this one has to be good, it is, he swings the ball heads out toward center field and right into the glove of the center fielder. Seventh inning, Boston 16, N. E. a measly 6. Eighth inning neither team scores. Ninth inning and final score, Boston 20, N. E. 6. Sounds more like a football game than a ball game to me.

Even though the game itself was not very exciting, the rest of the entertainment was good. Several bands were present to add a little excitement and life to the almost dead game. John Kiley, Boston's ace organist was on hand to lead the fans in the singing of a few old favorites. Lucille Ball was present, and that pretty young lass has plenty on the ball, in more ways than one.

Some real home-run hitting was displayed prior to the game by Ted Williams, Rudy York, and Bobby Doer, who at the present time is residing in Newton. The three ace hitters were contestants in a contest to determine who could hit the old apple the furthest. Williams won by socking the ball over 440 feet.
